The Ephemera of Mark Morrisroe Mark Morrisroe, 2012 The photographs of Mark Morrisroe 1959-1989 are steeped in fragility both as material objects scored and pockmarked by the vicissitudes of time and as forlorn commemorations of brief moments in all too brief lives In this sense the photographs are also objects of ephemera of a piece with Morrisroe's equally fragile magazines collages and drawings which this volume compiles for the first time Containing much previously unpublished work Mark Dirt includes spreads from Morrisroe's punk zine Dirt he sort of invented the Boston punk scene Jack Pierson later recalled of his former lover as well as correspondence and notes by the artist sketches and even his last will and testament All of these documents have been assembled by Morrisroe's longtime partner Ramsey McPhillips and represent the most complete survey of the artist's non-photographic works

Malady and Mortality Helen Thomas, 2016-06-22 This ground-breaking study examines visual and literary responses to and representations of illness dying and death from the perspective of the chronically ill their families and carers medics artists photographers authors and academics It encourages a re-examination of cultural taboos and visual and literary practices that engage with illness and death Focusing upon a wide range of creative and critical engagements this book makes a significant contribution to the medical humanities via its exploration of medical practice literature and film digital media studies graphic design and both contemporary and historical attitudes towards illness death including infant mortality mourning and bereavement For some the experience of illness provokes feelings of exile crisis or social critique whilst for others it instigates utopian discourses predicated upon personal reflection communication or connectivity wherein the self is redefined beyond the parameters and constraints of the body

AIDS and Representation Fiona Johnstone, 2023-05-18 AIDS Representation explores portraits and self-portraits made in response to the AIDS epidemic in America in the 1980s and 1990s Addressing the work of artists including Mark Morrisroe Robert Blanchon and Felix Gonzalez Torres through the interrelated themes of sickness and mortality desire and sexual identity love and loss Fiona Johnstone shows how the self-representational practices of artists with HIV and AIDS offered a richly imaginative response to the limitations of early AIDS imagery Johnstone argues that the AIDS epidemic changed the very nature of visual representation and artistic practice necessitating a radical new approach to conceptualising and visualising the human form. An extended epilogue considers the ongoing art historicization of the epidemic re contextualising the book's themes in relation to contemporary photographic works. More than just a historical discussion of the art of the AIDS crisis, AIDS and Representation contributes to an emergent body of scholarship on the visual representation of illness. Expanding the established genre of the autopathography or illness narrative beyond the predominantly textual, this important contribution to art history and health humanities sensitively unpicks the entanglements between aesthetic form and the expression of lived experiences of critical and chronic ill health.

Mark Morrisroe Connie Butler, Klaus Ottmann, 1998-10-01 "There was a Sense of Family ..." Elisabeth Lebovici, 2013. The photographs of Mark Morrisroe 1959-1989 feature a revolving cast of characters: childhood friends, Boston school allies such as Jack Pierson, flatmates, lovers and hustlers that freights them in the wake of those early days of AIDS with a tremendous poignancy, edge and melancholy. Struck by these qualities, the Morrisroe scholar and curator Teresa Philo Gruber decided to track down and interview the photographer's friends, acquaintances and lovers and to make this book a portrait of Morrisroe through his milieu or family. There Was a Sense of Family: The Friends of Mark Morrisroe characterizes Morrisroe as the photographer-director of his time and place. It includes interviews with Pia Howard, Jane Hudson, Kathe Izzo, Laurie Olinder, Jack Pierson, John Stefanelli, Mike and Doug Starn, Stephen Tashjian, Gail Thacker and others. Morrisroe's portraits of these subjects are included alongside contemporary portraits by Gruber.

Art about AIDS Sophie Junge, 2016-11-21. In addition to being a medical, political and social crisis, the AIDS epidemic in the United States also led to a crisis of artistic representation. This book reveals the important political and moral role of American photographers in the social discourse on AIDS based on the 1989 New York exhibition Witnesses Against Our Vanishing, curated by photographer Nan Goldin.

Changing difference Peter Hujar, Mark Morrisroe, 2012. Peter Hujar, Mark Morrisroe e Jack Smith si muovono all'interno del difficile territorio che separa la visibilit  e l'assimilazione della differenza. La loro opera traccia una complessa parabola che parte dagli anni Sessanta per arrivare alla fine degli Ottanta e mette in risalto i rischi che fondere arte e vita, ricerca formale e lotta politica comporta. Lo spettatore accompagnato in un percorso tra arte d'elite e arte popolare, banale ed elegiaco, trash e raffinatezza, vita e morte, un viaggio attraverso i generi maschile, femminile, transgender e gli orientamenti sessuali eterosessualit , omosessualit , bisessualit , cos  come sono stati raccontati dalla cultura underground e da quella tradizionale.

Boston School Lia Gangitano, 1995. People love telling stories I know, some I shouldn't repeat. The story of Boston School could go a couple of ways. It's a story about this town, relationships and remembering things. And as one artist said, It's also about throwing things away. The fact that the pictures that preserve and further this story can be gathered and presented is incidental to just knowing that they are there. Lia Gangitano.
