This volume links theoretical and instructional approaches on how reading is motivated and assessed and examines the interrelationship between reading motivation and achievement among boys and girls in culturally and geographically different settings. Much of the research on children's reading has focused on cognitive processes; however, reading is an activity that also requires interest and motivation. These attitudes are generally defined as readers' affect toward reading and their consequence is that children with more positive attitudes are more motivated to read. Taking into account the variability that exists within the notion of gender and age, this volume aims to examine and scrutinize previous research on the topic as well as test theories on how the different dimensions of reading motivation vary with gender in relation to cultural issues, motivational constructs such as engagement, and classroom climate, the role of emotions, interests, and attitudes towards reading, among others. The book will be of interest to researchers, educators, graduate students, and other professionals working in the area of literacy, reading motivation, reading achievement, and gender differences.

Reading and Reader Development Judith Elkin, Briony Train, Debbie Denham, 2003

Reader development focuses on readers rather than reading skills. The purposes of reader development are to enhance the reading experience to make it a more pleasurable and creative act for the reader, to increase people's confidence in their reading, and to make reading a more communal activity by bringing readers together to share their experiences. The focus of reader development is pleasure reading, which the authors interpret as reading fiction. They observe that public libraries were not at the forefront of this movement, but librarians are responding by changing library culture to focus on readers rather than books. The ways in which librarians responded and additional responses they could undertake are described within the context of the broader social movements in the United Kingdom to promote reader development. Three themes dominate the chapters: First, the authors tirelessly celebrate reading. Reading is good. Reading will make one happy. Reading elevates. The second theme is opportunism. If society is paying attention to reading, librarians should get on board and seize the opportunity to build their status and to secure the place of libraries as critically important institutions The third theme is social inclusiveness Librarians should always keep in mind the political dimensions of public library service and assure that all sectors of the populations share in the benefits of library service Readers in search of guidance concerning what librarians should do will find plenty of that here EDITOR Illinois Reading Council Journal ,2019 Library & Information Science Abstracts ,2008 Cyberscience Michael Nentwich,2003 Describes and analyses the use of information and communication technologies in the academic world Microform & Imaging Review ,2003 Reading Across International Boundaries Roger Openshaw,Janet Soler,2007-05-08 This book explores debates about teaching reading set in social cultural and political contexts It highlights historical and comparative dimensions international influences and challenges preconceptions The collection aims to broaden understanding and propose alternative visions for improving reading education Passagen ,2006 Writing from Sources Brenda Spatt,2011-03-01 Covering every step of research writing and documentation Writing from Sources provides a complete guide to source based writing The book builds from fundamental skills such as annotating a passage to more demanding ones such as integrating sources smoothly into an original argument Examples exercises and guidance throughout help students gain confidence with essential concepts while numerous readings drawn from a variety of sources provide models and practice in every skill 56th Yearbook of the National Reading Conference ,2007 Travel Notes from the New Literacy Studies Kate Pahl,Jennifer Rowsell,2006 This book joins two important fields that of literacy and multimodality with a focus on local and global literacies Chapters include work on media popular culture and literacy weblogs global and local crossings in and out of educational settings in such locations as the US the UK South Africa Australia and Canada Methodologies for Estimating Advisory Curve Speeds on Oregon Highways Karen Dixon,2008
