Numerical Modelling Of Nonlinear Stellar Pulsations:

The Numerical Modelling of Nonlinear Stellar Pulsations J. Robert Buchler, 2012-12-06 This interdisciplinary meeting has brought together a group of astrophysicists with hands on experience in the numerical computation of astrophysical fluid dynamics in particular nonlinear stellar pulsations and a group of applied mathematicians who are actively engaged with the development of novel and improved numerical methods The goal of the workshop has been for the astrophysicists to discuss in detail the numerical problems encountered in the modelling of stellar pulsations and for the mathematicians to present a survey of recent developments in numerical techniques This astrophysical mathematical intercourse will help the astrophysicists in the future development of more reliable and efficient codes on the one hand and it has introduced the mathematicians to an unfamiliar area which is a tough testing ground for their techniques Since the difficulties encountered are common to other fluid dynamics problems and are in fact perhaps more severe fluid dynamicists in other research areas may find the results of this workshop of interest as well Much of our theoretical understanding of the intricate and interesting behavior of variable stars rests on our ability to perform accurate numerical hydrodynamical computations of stellar models Extensive calculations of nonlinear radial stellar pulsations with the use of increasingly powerful computers are showing more and more clearly that the numerical codes in current use have serious deficiencies

Cosmic Winds and the Heliosphere J. R. Jokipii, C. P. Sonett, Mark S. Giampapa, 2018-01-30 Until the advent of space physics astrophysical plasmas could be studied only using ground based observations Although observational methods have advanced over recent decades the merging of heliospheric physics with astrophysics is far from complete due to the vastly different techniques employed by astronomers and space physicists That astrophysical plasmas can be studied directly is a major advance in astrophysical research The solar wind from the Sun is only one of many examples of solar winds but it provides scientists with a basis for understanding how these formerly disparate disciplines are related Cosmic Winds and the Heliosphere is a comprehensive sourcebook on conceptually correlated topics in astrophysical winds and heliospheric physics The contributors review the various kinds of winds such as solar wind winds of cataclysmic variables and winds from pulsating stars They then examine the physics of wind origin and physical phenomena in winds including heliospheric shocks magnetohydrodynamic turbulence and kinetic phenomena A final section considers interactions with surrounding media with contributions ranging from studies of the interstellar cloud surrounding the solar system to considerations of solar wind interaction with comets Prepared to the scrupulous standards of the University of Arizona Space Science Series Cosmic Winds and the Heliosphere is an essential volume for astronomers and space physicists

Mass-Losing Pulsating Stars and their Circumstellar Matter Y. Nakada, M. Honma, M. Seki, 2012-12-06 Editing the proceedings of a scientific meeting is not an easy task Sometimes people who give an excellent talk do not send the manuscript by the deadline However this time thanks to the punctuality of all the participants we have this excellent volume for the workshop on mass losing pulsating stars and their circumstellar matter prepared in time Almost all of the oral presentations including the summary are collected in this volume We regret that we cannot put in this volume a few posters that we failed to receive before the editorial work The workshop was planned as a small meeting with less than fifty attendants because the city of Sendai was far from the most of the active institutions However the number of submitted papers exceeded the SOC's expectation many interesting contributions had to be scheduled in the poster session Still the oral sessions were so tight that many participants might have felt frustrated for the shortage of discussions The organizers of the workshop have to apologize to the attendants for the inconvenience caused from such a happy underestimate about the size of the workshop
