Learning, Teaching, and Social Media Andrew McWhirter, 2024-01-31 Employing a unique generational approach this book critically assesses social media in educational contexts across all educational levels from primary and secondary schools to further and higher education proposing a schema for social media literacy SML. Using research obtained from fieldwork observations conducted in online teaching groups surveys and in depth interviews with teachers and educators on the topic of social media and education chapters interrogate the historical relationship between educator and learner and use the frame of expert methodology to understand what educators themselves consider important about social media and education relative to their sectors. Bringing together current literature from education, learning and media technologies along with longstanding debates around technological influence chapters also draw on audience and communication studies, psychology and arts and humanities at a time when many different disciplines are trying to understand what social media means to our society. This interdisciplinary volume will be of great interest to academics, researchers and postgraduates in the fields of technology in education, media literacy and critical digital media. Practitioners involved in the sociology of education will also find the book of use The Ethics of Digital Literacy Kristen Hawley Turner, 2019-12-31 The digital era has brought many opportunities and many challenges to teachers and students at all levels. Underlying questions about how technologies have changed the ways individuals read, write and interact are questions about the ethics of participation in a digital world. As users consume and create seemingly infinite content what are the moral guidelines that must be considered. How do we teach students to be responsible ethical citizens in a digital world. This book shares practices across levels from teaching elementary students to adults in an effort to explore these questions. It is organized into five sections that address the following aspects of teaching ethics in a digital world: ethical contexts, ethical selves, ethical communities, ethical stances and ethical practices.

Media Education for a Digital Generation Julie Frechette, Rob Williams, 2015-10-14 Media education for digital citizenship is predicated upon the ability to access, analyze, evaluate and produce media content and communication in a variety of forms. While many media literacy approaches overemphasize the end goal of accessing digital media content through the acquisition of various technology, software, apps and analytics, this book argues that the goals for comprehensive and critical digital literacy require grasping the means through which communication is created, deployed, used and shared regardless of which tools or platforms are used for meaning making and social interaction. Drawing upon the intersecting matrices of digital literacy and media literacy the volume provides a framework for developing critical digital literacies by exploring the necessary skills and competencies for engaging students as citizens of the digital world
