Moynihan, Mary E. Shaner, 1986      Family Ties in Victorian England Claudia Nelson, 2007-02-28

The Victorians were passionate about family. While Queen Victoria's supporters argued that her intense commitment to her private life made her the more fit to mother her people, her critics charged that it distracted her from her public responsibilities. Here Nelson focuses particularly on the conflicting and powerful images of family life that Victorians produced in their fiction and nonfiction that is on how the Victorians themselves conceived of family which continues both to influence and to help explain visions of family today. Drawing upon a wide variety of 19th century fiction and nonfiction, Nelson examines the English Victorian family both as it was imagined and as it was experienced. For many Victorians, family was exalted to the status of secular religion, endowed with the power of fighting the contamination of unchecked commercialism or sexuality and holding out the promise of reforming humankind. Although in practice this ideal might have proven unattainable, the many detailed 19th century descriptions of the outlook and behavior appropriate to fathers and mothers, sons and daughters and other family members illustrate the extent of the pressure felt by members of this society to try to live up to the expectations of their culture. Defining family to include the extended family, the foster or adoptive family and the stepfamily, Nelson considers different roles within the Victorian household in order to gauge the ambivalence and the social anxieties surrounding them, many of which continue to influence our notions of family today.

Goodly is Our Heritage Rashna B. Singh, 2004. Patterns of sublimation begin in childhood. So does binary and hierarchical thinking. The child must be trained to see in oppositions and on a scale of order. So the story of nation and people, race and culture begins as the bedtime story. The author, How else asks Rashna Singh, do we explain the uncanny physical resemblance between Osama bin Laden and the evil Jaffar of Disney's motion picture Aladdin? Singh provides a most persuasive argument for why these sentiments are both insidious and compelling and how they resonate to this day. While she includes such classic examples as The Secret Garden, Robinson Crusoe and the Babar series, it is her inclusion of genuinely neglected fictions that lends her analyses a special richness. In an engaging narrative style, Singh demonstrates how constructions of character evolve into cultural imprints which encourage their young readers to choose the goodly side with little thought of badly repercussions.

Lewis Carroll Morton N. Cohen, 1996-11-26. Under the pen name Lewis Carroll, Charles Lutwidge Dodgson became a legend for his children's books which broke the constraints of Victorian moralism. Thirty years in the writing and drawn from a voluminous fund of letters.

and diaries this exemplary biography conveys both the imaginative fancy and human complexity of the creator of Alice in Wonderland Photos     Masterworks of Children's Literature, Volume Six, 1837-1900 ,1985     Knight Letter ,2003

Through the Northern Gate Jacqueline P. Banerjee,1996 This study challenges critical orthodoxy by showing that childhood became a focus of interest in British fiction well before the Romantic period It also argues that children in the Victorian novel far from being sentimental figures are psychologically unique and contribute positively and significantly to the narrative discourse Contemporary ideology the novelists autobiographical and humanitarian impulses and gender issues are all examined as factors in this development Works by the major authors are analysed alongside others by non canonical and children s writers     Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books University of Chicago. against telling tales or presented competing versions of masculinity such as the Christian gentleman versus the self made man Sometimes these middle class white women projected their sense of estrangement onto working class and minority women Sometimes they wrote school stories that were in dialog with other genres as when Mrs Henry Wood wrote a sensation story or like Louisa May Alcott they domesticated the boys school story giving prominence to a female viewpoint
