Modern Communications and Spread Spectrum George R. Cooper, Clare D. McGillem, 1986      Modern Communications and Spread Spectrum George R. Cooper, Clare D. McGillem, 1986      Modern Communications and Spread Spectrum George R. Cooper, Clare D. McGillem, 1986      PSpice for Digital Communications Engineering Paul Tobin, 2022-06-01 PSpice for Digital Communications Engineering shows how to simulate digital communication systems and modulation methods using the very powerful Cadence Orcad PSpice version 10.5 suite of software programs. Fourier series and Fourier transform are applied to signals to set the ground work for the modulation techniques introduced in later chapters. Various baseband signals including duo binary baseband signaling are generated and the spectra are examined to detail the unsuitability of these signals for accessing the public switched network. Pulse code modulation and time division multiplexing circuits are examined and simulated where sampling and quantization noise topics are discussed. We construct a single channel PCM system from transmission to receiver i.e. end to end and import real speech signals to examine the problems associated with aliasing, sample and hold. Companding is addressed here and we look at the A and mu law characteristics for achieving better signal to quantization noise ratios. Several types of delta modulators are examined and also the concept of time division multiplexing is considered. Multi level signaling techniques such as QPSK and QAM are analyzed and simulated and home made meters such as scatter and eye meters are used to assess the performance of these modulation systems in the presence of noise. The raised cosine family of filters for shaping data before transmission is examined in depth where bandwidth efficiency and channel capacity is discussed. We plot several graphs in Probe to compare the efficiency of these systems. Direct spread spectrum is the last topic to be examined and simulated to show the advantages of spreading the signal over a wide bandwidth and giving good signal security at the same time.      Spread Spectrum Systems for GNSS and Wireless Communications Jack Kenneth Holmes, 2007 This cutting edge resource offers a modern treatment of spread spectrum (SS) communications including direct sequence and frequency hopping. This comprehensive volume presents the principles of design and analysis for all SS systems and places special emphasis on wireless systems and global navigation satellite systems (GNSS).      Electronic Warfare Receivers and Receiving Systems Richard A. Poisel, 2015-06-01 Receivers systems are considered the core of electronic warfare (EW) intercept systems. Without them the fundamental purpose of such systems is null and void. This book considers the major elements that make up receiver systems and the receivers that go in them. This resource provides system design engineers with techniques for design and development of EW receivers for modern modulations, spread spectrum in addition to receivers for older common modulation formats. Each major module in these receivers is considered in detail. Design information is included as well as performance tradeoffs of various components. Major factors that influence the functioning of the modules are identified and discussed. Key performance parameters are identified as well and approaches to achieving design goals are considered.      Surface
