Bloomer, 2017-11-10 In the early 1980s in a rural village in South India a Dalit woman miscarried She hovered on the edge of death until the Virgin Mary led her to a chapel and possessed her For years hundreds of ailing Catholics and Hindus came to this woman for healing and Mary made them well Two decades later in the metropolis of Chennai a boy named Alex lay in his hospital bed sick with fever when the Virgin Mary appeared to him and told him to walk He did and at home he felt Mary enter his body Soon his older cousin Rosalind also showed signs of Marian possession Mary told them that her name was Jecintho Within three years another young woman in Chennai also became possessed by Jecintho and began exhibiting signs of stigmata blood flowing from her hands and eyes Possessed by the Virgin is an ethnographic account of Marian possession healing and exorcism among Catholics and Hindus in southeast India Following the lives of three Tamil Roman Catholic women for more than a decade Kristin C Boomer attends to the women's own descriptions of their experience with Marian possession as well as to those of the people who came to them for healing Her book investigates how possession is possible and in what contexts such experiences can be read as authentic Roman Catholic officials have responded in various ways banning certain activities while promoting others Their responses reflect the complicated relationship of the Roman Catholic Church with non Christian religious practices on the Indian subcontinent where possession a term introduced by missionaries involving deities and spirits has long been commonplace and where gods goddesses and spirits have long inhabited people This ground sets the stage for Bloomer to explore questions of agency gender subjectivity and power and the complex interconnection between the ethnographic Self and the Other Between the Sea and the Sky P. T. Mathew SJ, 2020-05-05 Between the Sea and the Sky is an inquiry into the religious world of a traditional fishing community on the Southwest coast of India It explores the vital role religious and spiritual beliefs play in sustaining people in such a precarious even deadly occupation Despite periodic natural calamities and the extreme challenges that accompany their everyday lives a remarkable spirit of resilience is evident in this coastal community Using the concept of lived religion Mathew explores the theological religious and spiritual contours of this remarkable community and draws from them broader insights into the nature of belief the development of modern domesticities showing the agency of indigenous women in negotiating both change and continuity and providing a wide range of case studies to show breadth and complexity and the local and national specificities of engagements with both missionaries and modernity My view is that all three aims are well and truly fulfilled Helen Lee Head Sociology and Anthropology La Trobe University Melbourne Cambridge Anthropology ,2003 Mental Health of Indian Women Bhargavi V Davar,1999 This pioneering book discusses the mental health of Indian women from the twin perspectives of feminism and the philosophy of the social sciences Reviewing data and documented material covering broad areas such as theory research clinical practice and policy Bhargavi V Davar addresses issues of the epidemiology of mental distress among Indian women the aetiology of mental illness in terms of socio demography violence and culturally specific distress behaviours gender bias in mental health services and the female self in the context of mental distress Mukkuvar Women Kalpana Ram,1988 Journal of Women's History ,1992 Bulletin Government Museum (Chennai, India),1894 From Role to Identity John C.
