Multiculturalism Andrew Shorten,2022-06-16 The idea that diverse cultural and ethnic groups should co exist within a country and that assimilation should not be forced upon immigrant groups multiculturalism was orthodoxy 20 years ago Today it s coming under pressure In this introduction to the political theory of multiculturalism Andrew Shorten surveys the leading theories of multiculturalism the critiques that have been levelled against the idea and the debates surrounding cohesion integration and diversity He then goes on to demonstrate how multicultural political theory can be renewed arguing that a single monolithic vision of multiculturalism must be replaced by a multiculturalism made up of different strands responding to distinctive but interrelated issues and inspired by real world policy debates about how political communities should respond to differences of religion language and nationality After tracing the influence of earlier multicultural ideas on these debates Shorten reveals some new and surprising possibilities for mutual learning Containing an up to date overview of multicultural political theory and its various offshoots this book is essential reading for students and scholars interested in the politics of cultural religious linguistic and national diversity

Multiculturalism and the Politics of Guilt Paul Gottfried,2002 Multiculturalism and the Politics of Guilt extends Paul Gottfried s examination of Western managerial government s growth in the last third of the twentieth century Linking multiculturalism to a distinctive political and religious context the book argues that welfare state democracy unlike bourgeois liberalism has rejected the once conventional distinction between government and civil society Gottfried argues that the West's relentless celebrations of diversity have resulted in the downgrading of the once dominant Western culture The moral rationale of government has become the consciousness raising of a presumed majority population While welfare states continue to provide entitlements and fulfill the other material programs of older welfare regimes they have ceased to make qualitative leaps in the direction of social democracy For the new political elite nationalization and income redistributions have become less significant than controlling the speech and thought of democratic citizens An escalating hostility toward the bourgeois Christian past explicit or at least implicit in the policies undertaken by the West and urged by the media is characteristic of what Gottfried labels an emerging therapeutic state For Gottfried acceptance of an intrusive political correctness has transformed the religious consciousness of Western particularly Protestant society The casting of true Christianity as a religion of sensitivity only toward victims has created a precondition for extensive social engineering Gottfried examines late twentieth century liberal Christianity as the promoter of the politics of guilt

Metaphysical guilt has been transformed into self abasement in relation to the suffering just identified with racial cultural and lifestyle minorities Unlike earlier proponents of religious liberalism the therapeutic statist oppose anything including empirical knowledge that impedes the expression of social and cultural guilt in an effort to raise the self esteem of designated victims Equally troubling to Gottfried is the growth of an American empire that is influencing European values and fashions Europeans have begun he says to embrace the multicultural movement that originated with American liberal Protestantism's emphasis on diversity as essential for democracy He sees Europeans bringing authoritarian zeal to enforcing ideas and behavior imported from the United States Multiculturalism and the Politics of Guilt extends the arguments of the author's earlier After Liberalism Whether one challenges or supports Gottfried's conclusions all will profit from a careful reading of this latest diagnosis of the American condition

Narrative Inquiry in a Multicultural Landscape JoAnn Phillion, 2002-04-30 The heart of this study is a detailed narrative account of a teacher in an inner city school For two years the author collaborated with an immigrant teacher from the Caribbean studying her practice from three perspectives place the community and school landscape temporality the history of the school and current programs and interaction the teacher's relationship with the school parents and students Current ways of examining multicultural issues focus on the analysis of broad factors affecting large groups of people In the process the individual is subsumed within categories and the subtle nuances of experiences are lost The narrative approach outlined in the book offers a new perspective on multiculturalism and research into multicultural education one the author terms narrative multiculturalism Narrative multiculturalism begins with experience as it is shaped by the contexts in which people live and work It is also shaped by broader societal and global forces In this approach multiculturalism is viewed as a fluid process continually evolving changing and transforming Narrative multiculturalism develops an in depth understanding of individual experiences and thereby creates an alternate

Multicultural Policies and the State

Marco Martiniello (sociology.),1998 In an age of transnational economic and political integration it is surprisingly rare to find social scientists reflecting on the lessons of cross national comparison At first glance there may be little to suggest why a comparison between Belgium and Britain should be instructive The former is a small country geographically located at the heart of Europe and housing the putative capital The latter has a large population by European standards but is struggling to reconcile a proud but insular history and special relationship to the United States with the economic imperative of union with the Continent Yet on closer inspection there are intriguing similarities Both countries have learnt some lessons from colonial adventures both contain nations within nations and both have incorporated significant populations of migrants from outside Europe since 1945 Both in other words have had to confront the challenge of multiculturalism One has had to build an approach from a starting point where a deep rift exists between two constituent nations the other from an equally profound colonial experience which produced a legacy of racial and ethnic categorisation Yet the situation is anything but static as Britain experiences a resurgence of regional or national pride and Belgium confronts the realities of offering citizenship to the descendants of recent migrants
