Multinationals and the Restructuring of the World Economy Michael Taylor,Nigel Thrift,1987      Multinationals and the Restructuring of the World Economy (RLE International Business) Michael Taylor,Nigel Thrift,2013-03-12 This volume charts the ways in which multinational corporations contributed to the restructuring of the world economy paying particular attention to the spatial consequences of and responses to their operations at a number of scales The book takes as its theme the differential spatial outcomes of the restructuring of different types of multinational corporation

Multinational Investment and Economic Structure Rajneesh Narula,2002-09-11 Multinational Investment and Economic Structure examines the relationship between industrial development and foreign direct investment FDI activities and the interaction between multinational MNE activity and economic structures It deals with the changing structure of the world economy as a whole and the dynamics of the relationship between industrial development and the extent of FDI activities across countries It evaluates the concurrent and interrelated evolutionary processes behind economic growth and MNE activity and how these evolutionary forces impact on the economic structure of individual economies in the industrialised world as their economies converge through globalisation      Ford and the Global Strategies of Multinationals Maria Isabel Studer Noguez,2003-08-27 Today the Multinational Enterprise MNE is seen as a leading agent in the process of globalization As they adopt global strategies MNE s are seen to be creating stronger deeper and more lasting links amongst countries thus shifting the balance of power inexorably in their favour to the detriment of the state This book interrogates this idea by undertaking a historical analysis of the global strategies of Ford

Multinationals and European Integration Nicholas A. Phelps,2013-10-18 This book examines the role of the multinational firms in processes of European integration It is primarily concerned with the implications of market integration and industrial restructuring for peripheral European regions Nicholas Phelps argues that because of the complex relationship between competition and economies of scale the persistence of market segmentation and because of the embeddedness of multinational investment in established production locations there is considerable inertia in the existing trade and investment patterns of multinationals in the EU This argument is explored empirically in relation to multinationals operating in Wales This study suggests that processes of restructuring accompanying market integration are slow to take effect and based on a diversity of motives

Multinational Managers and Poverty in the Third World Lee A.

Tavis, 1982 International Finance H. Kent Baker (ed.), Leigh A. Riddick, 2013 Understanding the current state of affairs and tools available in the study of international finance is increasingly important as few areas in finance can be divorced completely from international issues. International Finance reflects the new diversity of interest in international finance by bringing together a set of chapters that summarizes and synthesizes developments to date in the many and varied areas that are now viewed as having international content. The book attempts to differentiate between what is known what is believed and what is still being debated about international finance. The survey nature of this book involves tradeoffs that inevitably had to be made in the process given the vast footprint that constitutes international finance. No single book can cover everything. This book however tries to maintain a balance between the micro and macro aspects of international finance. Although each chapter is self contained the chapters form a logical whole that follows a logical sequence. The book is organized into five broad categories of interest 1 exchange rates and risk management 2 international financial markets and institutions 3 international investing 4 international financial management and 5 special topics. The chapters cover market integration financial crisis and the links between financial markets and development in some detail as they relate to these areas. In each instance the contributors to this book discuss developments in the field to date and explain the importance of each area to finance as a field of study. Consequently the strategic focus of the book is both broad and narrow depending on the reader's needs. The entire book provides a broad picture of the current state of international finance but a reader with more focused interests will find individual chapters illuminating on specific topics

Kolko examines what the global capitalist system means today for the United States Japan and Western Europe for the less developed nations and for the centrally planned economies of Eastern Europe Russia and China. The author's analysis moves from changes in banking and the service sector to the new technology industries the dilemmas of world debt efforts to restructure world trade and the nature of monetary relations. Kolko describes the various strategies to restructure the global economy and maintains that reform on a national scale cannot begin to cope with the crisis.
