Hong Kong Mobile Helen F. SIU, Agnes S. KU, 2009-02-01 In this interdisciplinary study the authors argue that Hong Kong should strengthen the mobility of its population One country two systems is a concept not uniquely reserved for post 1997 Hong Kong Historically the territory has thrived on being simultaneously part of China and the world Flexible positioning at the margins has made it a node in the crossroads of empires trading communities industrial assembly lines and now global finance consumption and media This essential characteristic Hong Kong as a space of flow has always been the source of its success The book shows that a porous border in fact has been maintained in the post war years Unique institutions developed over the century have absorbed waves of immigrants entering from China However the study warns that the population is now aging when compared with other world cities and China's fast growing urban centers Only with a massive input of young educated and diverse human talents can Hong Kong remain a vibrant portal for the creative fusion of capital goods services cultural horizons aspirations and civic energies Lugard in Hong Kong Bernard Mellor, 1992-08-01 Sir Frederick Lugard ranks as one of Britain's most distinguished colonial administrators although he remains a controversial figure During his five years as Governor of Hong Kong a brief spell in the middle of a long and dramatic career in Africa Lugard found in educational reform the scope he needed to make a lasting impression and give play to his imperialist theories and instincts The University of Hong Kong owes its existence to the initiative and tenacity of Lugard His purpose in founding the University was to produce a new highly educated middle class trained in Western technology and the English language a vanguard of increased British influence in the east This book paints a very human picture of Lugard as a working governor in the relative stability of Hong Kong against a backdrop of the Chinese empire being torn apart by revolution
