

A group of volunteers, mostly men, are huddled together outdoors. They are wearing blue t-shirts, some of which have the word "VOLUNTEER" printed on them. Their hands are stacked in the center of the group, symbolizing teamwork and community. The background is a blurred green, suggesting a park or outdoor setting.

Ngos In Cities:

The Urban Opportunity Nicolas Hall, Robert Hart, Diana Mitlin, 1996 This study describes how its contributors Northern NGOs working in the South are responding to the urban opportunity building partnerships to support local organizations that are tackling urban problems and bringing local views to bear on officials who may have the power to improve things

NGOs in Cities Leo Thomas, 1995-01 The work of intermediary NGOs in urban areas is attracting increasing attention in the development community Policy documents from Northern NGOs official agencies and southern governments are acknowledging the potential contributions that NGOs could make to development in cities However whilst ascribing numerous roles to urban NGOs few commentators have reflected on the appropriateness or capacity of urban NGOs to assume expanded and mainstreamed roles

Aid from International NGOs Dirk-Jan Koch, 2009-02-03 International NGOs are increasingly important players within the new aid architecture but their geographic choices remain uncharted territory This book focuses on patterns of development assistance mapping while analysing and assessing the country choices of the largest international NGOs Koch s approach is interdisciplinary and uses qualitative quantitative and experimental methods to provide a clear insight in the determinants of country choices of international NGOs The book aims to discover the country choices of international NGOs how they are determined and how they could be improved This work which uses a dataset created specifically for the research comes to the conclusion that international NGOs do not target the poorest and most difficult countries They are shown to be focussing mostly on those countries where their back donors are active Additionally it was discovered that they tend to cluster their activities for example international NGOs also have their donor darlings and their donor orphans Their clustering is explained by adapting theories that explain concentration in for profit actors to the non profit context The book is the first on the geographic choices of international NGOs and is therefore of considerable academic interest especially for those focusing on development aid and third sector research Furthermore the book provides specific policy suggestions for more thought out geographic decisions of international NGOs and their back donors

Funding Civil Society Lisa McIntosh Sundstrom, 2006 This book investigates the impact of Western democracy assistance programs on the development of Russian women s and soldiers rights NGOs in Russia It argues that the normative content of assistance programs as well as the character of regional political environments fundamentally shape the influence of such programs

The Role of Cities in International Relations Szpak, Agnieszka, Gawłowski, Robert, Modrzyńska, Joanna, Modrzyński, Paweł, Dahl, Michał, 2022-09-13 Concerns about the position and function of nation states in the international arena have led to a growing interest in the role of cities in international relations This timely book advances the argument that cities are becoming active and informal actors in international law making indicating the emergence of a third generation of multi level governance and Discoverability explains the current state of the art practices in the smart city context for digitization and e governance processes in accordance with the UN Sustainable Development Goals It discusses pros and cons of the various data standards and federation measures involved in the digital transformation of cities considering the end user as well as implementor s viewpoint It utilizes real world use cases of cities around the world highlighting their goals and what measures they have adopted It provides guidelines for achieving long term service federation interoperability and discoverability while keeping the UN SDGs in perspective This book provides the basic insights for technical and strategic viewpoints for data and communication interoperability and federation measures Later it provides federated scaling solutions to enable service discovery and features in a cross sector deployment These are useful for designing digitisation measures by using one or leveraging overlapping features of many introduced solutions These solutions are provided for specific contexts and use cases making understandability of the technical interfaces and their relationship with governance mechanisms easier for a range of audiences working in smart city contexts This book will help practitioners and researchers in the smart city domain better understand existing and evolving technologies and how to better formulate their processes to provide a sustainable model for urban development Giving them insight into the feasibility and implications of highly scalable smart city and urban solutions will allow better constructs for urban digital ecosystems enabling information exchange and interoperability across multiple sectors It ultimately supports infrastructure goals of ensuring security privacy and transparency while enabling future concepts for Artificial Intelligence Machine Learning Linked Data and e governance Defines and describes real world digital transformation needs arising from smart city domain Analyzes standards methods and best practices related to processes in smart city infrastructure builds Analyzes and makes recommendations related to the technologies both legacy and upcoming their set up functions and the future requirements to meet the SDGs Global Civil Society 2004/5 Helmut K Anheier, Marlies Glasius, Mary Kaldor, 2004-10-18 Contains a wealth of detail on globalization people s values and attitudes governance and civil liberties plus a chronology of the conferences campaigns and protests that are the sinews of global civil society The State of the World's Cities, 2004 Urban Growth and Development in Asia: Living in the cities Graham Chapman, Ashok K. Dutt, Robert W. Bradnock, 1999 These two volumes provide a panoramic survey of the patterns causes and consequences of urbanization in Asia The volume I examines the physical aspects of urbanization and the Volume II deals with the human and environmental impacts Together they form a ground breaking insight into the nature and prospects of Asian urbanization Adapt du r sum de l diteur Partnership for Local Capacity Development Paul N. Bongers, 2003 Non-governmental Organizations Njuguna Ng'ethe, W. V. Mitullah, Mutahi Ngunyi, 1990 Governing Africa's Cities Mark Swilling, 1997 This study of African cities examines how the urban systems and the people within them are coping with the pressures of urban growth Twenty African countries are covered and the concluding chapter discusses the impending challenges in the governance of African urban development A Strategic

Assessment of Non-governmental Organizations in the Philippines Antonio B. Quizon, Rhoda U. Reyes, 1989 Cities in a Global Society Richard Victor Knight, Gary Gappert, 1989-08 Cities in a Global Society is an impressive collection of essays focused on an important global redefinition. Go Global is a rapidly emerging theme of the 1990s and this book is the definitive overview of cities that are doing so. Michael Marien, Editor, Future Survey. This is one of the most significant public policy books to appear. In essay after essay, this important volume makes clear a simple idea: That the culture, environment, and economy of cities are increasingly influenced by forces well beyond the end of Main Street. Bulletin of Municipal Foreign Policy. As the year 2000 approaches, urbanized areas are entering a new era, one in which they will be shaped primarily by their responses to powerful global forces. The editors and contributors to this fascinating and timely volume believe that cities must begin to assess their roles in a global society and establish their strategic position and comparative advantage in the global marketplace. A wide range of essays by noted international scholars shows how national urban policies tend to be reactive, driven by problems rather than by opportunities, consequently reinforcing the passive nature of cities and their dependency on national initiatives. The diversity of their perspectives, analyses, observations, and insights helps to identify and define critical issues that cities are beginning to address as they become more internationally oriented. After first examining the role of cities in society, the contributors present several perspectives on a city's future, management model, and review strategies for developing global cities. This stimulating volume offers a wide range of innovative responses to these new challenges and will be useful to professionals and students in urban studies, economics, development studies, anthropology, international relations, future studies, political science, political theory, and sociology. NGOs and Governments Jon Bennett, 1997. Union: The Open Society Institute. Cities for Citizens Mike Douglass, John Friedmann, 1998-07-03. Cities for Citizens planning and the rise of civil society in a global age. Contributors: Rebecca Abers, Janet Abu Lughod, Mike Douglass, Bent Flyvbjerg, John Forester, John Friedmann, Roger Keil, Ute Lehrer, Peter Marris, Lisa Peattie, Francisco Sabatini, Leonie Sandercock, Michael Storper. In an era of the globalization of finance, production, and distribution networks, cities have become increasingly competitive. The business environments preferred by such international investment impact on the lives of citizens on urban spaces, services, amenities, and infrastructure. In the fight for the future of our cities, civil society has now entered the fray. Whether resisting the intrusion of both state and corporate economy into the life of neighbourhoods and communities or working with both government and the private sector in managing urban affairs, civil society lays claim to inclusion in a more democratic politics of planning. This political shift is refashioning planning. Planning is now recognized as more than simply a state regulatory process; it has become a political activity central to the struggle towards more liveable cities. Cities for Citizens brings together leading names in planning today. The contributors present an international range of case studies from the USA, Latin America, Europe, and Asia Pacific, which ground the exploration of ideas in the realities and struggles of everyday life. Planning Urban Studies. Social Science. From Unsustainable to Inclusive Cities. United Nations.
