Outcomes In Process Setting Standards For Language Use:

Language Assessment and the National Qualifications Framework Melissa Vieyra-King, Karen Calteaux, 1996 The collection of discussion papers from an October 1995 conference in South Africa focuses on the implications of the country's new National Qualifications Framework (NQF) a policy initiative for reform and renewal of post-apartheid education for language teaching and testing. Papers include: Introductory Comments; Language Assessment and the NQF; Edward French Ihron Rensburg: The NQF Challenges in the Language Field; Schalk Engelbrecht: Gerard Schuring: Language Education and the National Qualifications Framework; An Introduction to Competency Based Education and Training; Daryl McLean: Standards and Levels in Language Assessment; Paul Musker; Sebolelo Nomvete: The Assessment of Language Outcomes in ABET; Implications of an Approach; Elizabeth Burroughs; Melissa Vieyra King; Gabi Witthaus: Issues Raised in Plenary Summary conference participants; Summing Up: Drawing the Issues Together In the Context of Language Education Policy; Neville Alexander; Summing Up: Drawing the Issues Together In the Context of the NQF; Jeanne Gamble; and Concluding Comments; Khetsi Lehoko. A list of participants is appended. MSE The Psychometrics of Standard Setting Mark D. Reckase, 2023-01-31 This book provides a unifying structure for the activities that fall under the process typically called standard setting on tests of proficiency. Standard setting refers to the methodology used to identify performance standards on tests of proficiency. The results from standard setting studies are critical for supporting the use of many types of tests. The process is frequently applied to educational psychological licensure certification and other types of tests and examination systems. The literature on procedures for standard setting is extensive but the methodology for standard setting has evolved in a haphazard way over many decades without a unifying theory to support the evaluation of the methods and the validation of inferences made from the standards. This book provides a framework for going beyond specific standard setting methods to gain an understanding of the goals for the methods and how to evaluate whether the goals have been achieved. The unifying structure provided in this book considers policy that calls for the existence of performance standards, the relationship of proficiency test design to the policy, and tasks assigned to subject matter experts to help them convert the policy to estimates of locations on the reporting score scale for the test. The book provides guidance on how to connect the psychometric aspects of the standard setting process to the intentions of policy makers as expressed in policy statements. Furthermore, the structure is used to support validity arguments for inferences made when using standards. Examples are provided to show how the unifying structure can be used to evaluate and improve standard setting methodology. Outcomes in Process Roseanne Y. DeFabio, 1994 Outcomes in Process responds to the growing national concern with setting standards for students' academic achievement. It proposes a set of language outcomes based on the belief that language is purposeful, social, and dynamic and that proficiency increases as one uses language to make meaning in ever-broadening contexts. These language outcomes can serve as a focus for curriculum instruction and assessment in secondary school. Outcomes in Process will guide new and experienced teachers as they reflect on their practice and consider how their curricular choices instructional strategies and assessment measures contribute to students developing language proficiency Roseanne DeFabio has gathered the best thinking of language scholars and the best practices of language users and teachers The result is not a recipe for teachers to follow but a conversation for reflective practitioners to join Intended especially for English teachers the book is also valuable for teachers across the curriculum who care about their students language abilities The Increasing
