Outcome Fundinga New Approach To Public Sector Grant Making:

Outcome funding Harold S. Williams, Arthur Y. Webb, 1991 At all of its levels a primary function of government is to give out money Government funds many groups to carry out public purposes This book presents a new approach which shifts funding to investment It replaces the traditional Request for proposal process with a sharp focus on key investor questions What are we buying What is the probability we will get it OUTCOME FUNDING asks grant seekers to define their customers their product their performance target The long proposal becomes a short plan as government as well as foundations other donors seek to make their money work as hard as do their people A key gain to grant seekers they no longer have to write one document to get money another to spend it The framework presented has been tested in a number of state local governments throughout the U S Authors are President of The Rensselaerville Institute Director of New York State Division of Substance Abuse Services      Grants Jean M. Fromm, 2007 Grants are available from thousands of sources both private and public To the grantseeker however this wealth of sources appears like an impenetrable jungle Where are the grants I need and what do I need to do to submit my ideas and proposals This book is designed to answer these questions by aiming the grantseeker to both the grant givers and by providing a bibliography of book for further research      Outcome Funding Harold S. Williams, Arthur Y. Webb, 1992      Planning Sustainable Transport Barry Hutton, 2013-06-19 Transport choices must be transformed if we are to cope with sustainability and climate change but this can only be done if we understand how complex transport systems work Straightforward choices are never made between one transport mode and another door to door movements of both people and freight use combinations of different modes of transport This book offers a cross disciplinary overview of transport systems and the ways in which they interact with urban and regional planning decisions and environmental issues It offers a thoughtful critique of existing methodology and policy raising issues providing facts explaining linkages and particularly stimulating debate The book methodically explores the definitions trends problems objectives and policies of transport planning In particular the author looks at land use as a major determinant of the nature and extent of the demand for transport concluding that the management of land use has to be a key element of any sustainable transport policy Planning Sustainable Transport will be essential reading for today s transport specialists planners and property developers It will also be useful to postgraduate students in planning and related disciplines      The Other Invisible Hand Geoff Mulgan, Charles Landry, 1995      Nonprofit/government Contracting and Sectoral Relationships Kristin L. Donahue, Joseph S. Nye, 2004-05-26 A Brookings Institution Press and Visions of Governance for the 21st Century publication The latest in a series exploring twenty first century governance this new volume examines the use of market means to pursue public goals Market based governance includes both the delegation of traditionally governmental functions to private players and the importation into government of market style management approaches and mechanisms of accountability The contributors all from Harvard University assess market based governance from four perspectives The demand side deals with new revised or newly important forms of interaction between government and the market where the public sector is the customer Chapters in this section include Steve Kelman on federal procurement reform Karen Eggleston and Richard Zeckhauser on contracting for health care and Peter Frumkin The supply side section deals with unsettled questions about government s role as a provider rather than a purchaser within the market system Contributors include Georges de Menil Frederick Schauer and Virginia Wise A third section explores experiments with market based arrangements for orchestrating accountability outside government by altering the incentives that operate inside market institutions Chapters include Robert Stavins on market based environmental policy Archon Fung on social markets and Cary Coglianese and David Lazer The final section examines both the upside and the downside of the market based approach to improving governance Contributors include Elaine Kamarck John D Donahue Mark Moore and Robert Behn An introduction by John D Donahue frames market based governance as an effort to engineer into public work some of the intensive accountability that characterizes markets without surrendering the extensive accountability of conventional government A preface by Joseph S Nye Jr sets the book in the context of a larger inquiry into the future of governance

Commissioning Consultancy Helen Kara, Paul Muir, 2003
 Bringing in extra skilled help from outside your organisation or partnership can be expensive unpredictable and potentially full of pitfalls If you commission such help it is your responsibility to ensure that you get the best results you can by getting the right type of help If you are a skilled outsider offering consultancy training project management or research then it is your responsibility to assist the person who commissions your work This book could help you to undertake this potentially complicated course of action together This book explores what consultants can do how to find and select the right consultant how to manage a consultant to get the results you want and how to forestall or overcome any problems that arise between commissioner and consultant
