Cassel, J.R. Walsh, 1984-09-12 With the appearance of a textbook as comprehensive as this one it is clear that the field of geriatrics is coming of age The broad scope of these volumes shapes a substantial answer to the question What is geriatrics and why should we be interested in it As I see it there are at least five reasons First the scientific or intellectual reason gerontology is the study of aging from the biologic psychological and social perspectives There is increasing interest in the fascinating insights into the biologic mechanisms of aging errors in protein synthesis DNA repair mechanisms alterations of the neuroendocrine system changes in the immune system genetic controls and somatic mutations Second the demographic reason this is the century of old age There has been a 26 year gain in the average life expectancy This gain compares with that acquired from 3 000 years B C the Bronze Age to the year 1900 which was about 29 years Therefore in one century there has been a gain in the average life expectancy almost equal to 5 000 previous years of human history In 1830 one of three newborn infants survived beyond 60 years of age      Paramedic Practice Today: Above and Beyond: Volume 2 Aehlert, Robert Vroman, 2011 Providing the tools you need to succeed the two volume set of Paramedic Practice Today Above and Beyond offers a solid foundation for paramedic practice and is now updated to reflect the 2010 emergency cardiovascular care guidelines A conversational easy to read style simplifies topics and helps you master National Standard Curriculum objectives and meet the new National Education Standards Each volume includes a companion DVD ROM with step by step videos demonstrating the skills in the textbook and more Because this two volume set corresponds to the National Registry of EMTs National EMS Practice Analysis it provides you with the best possible preparation for the National Registry exam Publisher's website      Databook on Geriatrics G.S. not exhaustive differential diagnosis of most of the commonly encountered symptoms in the elderly and to draw particular attention to the common and important disorders. The common causes of symptoms and the common diseases as well as certain features which have special importance to the medicine of the elderly are emphasized. A final section on investigations with short notes which one may employ in the practice of geriatric medicine is included along with an appendix of normal values for the elderly. In our view this book does not show how geriatric medicine is practised but it does provide an outline of clinical aspects of medicine. Geriatrics knowledge of which is essential to the practice of geriatrics. G S R V P Foreword I take the view that if vitality is reduced to the extent that it interferes with life as the old person would wish to live it then a proper medical assessment should be made as part of the overall appraisal of that person's problems. The provision of a home help or the meals on wheels service cannot be expected to revitalize the person suffering from hypothyroidism or pernicious anaemia. In the event both medical treatment and social support may be needed and to provide one without the other would be half measures.
