Outside Looking In The Long Journey:

Outside Looking In S. Glenn Wakefield, 2004-02-24 This is the autobiography of a little boy of mixed racial background. He was born in 1938 in rural Georgia, the child of sharecroppers in abject poverty. The story takes the reader inside the thoughts of this boy and allows them to view his feelings and actions as he becomes a man. The little boy experiences the American process of character genocide as practiced by benevolent adults. He refuses to accept the boundaries the subhuman treatment and his stated inferiority in a racist society. His inner strength and genetics enable him to obtain many of his set goals. The boy finds that all things come at a price and he comes to a conclusion. Although he is he views himself not as a Caucasian, not as a Native American or an African American, but as a fortunate and gifted human being. He breaks 15 000 years of Native American tradition and shares his experiences with the reader. Just because the white man says it. That don't make it so. Don't explain yourself to the whites because they will never understand you anyway. You come to feel and understand the little boy's curiosity about adult behavior and his determination to persevere and survive at a high personal cost as the rite of passage takes him through his childhood. He learns the lessons of life that good as well as bad people come in all colors. All people must be judged as individuals and on personal merit. The reader becomes aware of the acuteness of his pain and the unfairness of life as the boy reaches for the American dream.
