Outcrops Terry Gifford,1991      Outcroppings from Navajoland Donald Levering,1984      Standing on the Outcrop Joyce Compton Brown,2021-05-15 Advance Praise for Standing on the Outcrop Standing on the Outcrop herself Joyce Compton Brown looks out over the vast peaks and deep valleys and long swoops of land she knows like the back of her hand it IS her hand bone and blood and the voices she hears are her own voices coming from way back the underside of history the inside of history Yet somehow Joyce has the great gift of writing them down and bringing them to us just as they were just as they are still peopling those vast and ancient hills Standing on the Outcrop is a treasure Lee Smith author of On Agate Hill Dimestore A Writer s Life and The Last Girls Here the stories linger opens Joyce Brown s lovely collection a line fulfilled on every page This book is immersed in place the shadow of Honeycutt and Linville mountains the beautiful valley where people till the ever cloying earth or work the mills or own them They are named and unnamed Cherokees ousted from their land Italian railroad workers Black men and women bought or hired murdered strikers shadows in photos or lost under trees and rock There s joy in language here whether a tale of loss bluntly told the lyrical testimony of the laborer released by a stroke to reveal his true nature or the linguistic dazzle of the Clinchfield railroad singing its siren song and you can work shifts work shifts work shifts You ll remember these people and hear their voices long after you ve closed the covers Valerie Nieman author of Leopard Lady A Life in Verse Like a farmer searching for water in these poems Joyce Brown delves deeper and deeper into her spirit country between Linville and Honeycutt Mountains Voice time and landscape merge and the essence of the place is revealed becomes our spirit country too Brown is one of our state s finest poets Ron Rash author of Serena and One Foot in Eden Each poem is a masterful piece of a multi colored quilt like the valley of North Cove in the Fall seen from the precipice above a vantage point from which to view the stories of people where their legends are the landscape of a burnt off mountain whose trees will rise again Brown skillfully sews together stories of beetle blight and wildfires to those of perseverance She never forgets the forgotten as shadows in backgrounds of old photos or names etched on stone grave markers worn away by time All the while a train threads the mountain in and out of tunnels with its grief of coal soothed by its sound of a deep bass note pitched beneath the coyotes tenor note With such rich imagery as Burnt trees stand like straight black sticks as if someone had tried to fool around for language on the mountain wall and failed Brown succeeds in telling what the landscape only prior held to itself Hilda Downter author of Bandana Creek and Sky Under the Roof Poems

Outcrop Abbie Huston Evans,1928      Reconnecting with John Muir Terry Gifford,2010-01-25 Advancing for the first time the concept of post pastoral practice Reconnecting with John Muir springs from Terry Gifford s understanding of the great naturalist as an exemplar of integrated environmentally conscious knowing and writing Just as the discourses of science and the arts were closer in Muir s day in part arguably because of Muir it is time we learned from ecology to recognize how integrated our own lives are as readers students scholars teachers and writers When we defy the institutional separations purposely straying from narrow career tracks the activities of reading scholarship teaching and writing can inform each other in a holistic post pastoral professional practice Healing the separations of culture and nature represents the next way forward from the current crossroads in the now established field of ecocriticism The mountain environment provides a common ground for the diverse modes of engagement and mediation Gifford discusses By attempting to understand the meaning of Muir s assertion that going to the mountains is going home Gifford points us toward a practice of integrated reading scholarship teaching and writing that is adequate to our environmental crisis

Insignificant but Special Bruce Sanford,2023-01-13

Life is a rarity We know of no other planet where life exists other than on Earth Life started out in a most simple form then proceeded along a labyrinth of evolutionary pathways that resulted in extraordinary and unfathomable designs This is a journey from the beginning of time to this very day guided by circumstances contingencies and chaos that has governed Earth s living assemblage But life s presence was not destined to just happen If it wasn t for our moon which gave Earth orbital and rotational stability life would not be as we know it today If it wasn t for volcanic eruptions Earth would be an ice clad frozen globe If it wasn t for one of the tiniest of living organisms that produced a toxic gas complex life would not have arisen If it wasn t for one particular extinction event Homo sapiens would not be walking this planet and you would not be reading this now If it wasn t for a million other things life would be much different or not at all Earth made life from the meek to the monstrous from the banal to the bizarre from the humblest to the haughtiest Strap yourself in alongside a window seat and witness the passing of time to view the episodes of change and how the making of life became the greatest story on Earth
