book explores the following topics how consumerism and electronic media have shaped globalized culture and how this is affecting religion the dynamics and characteristics of often overlooked middle class religion and how these relate to globalization and differences between developed and emerging countries emerging trends and how we understand phenomena as different as mega churches and holistic spiritualistic journeys and how the pressures of consumer culture act on religious traditions indigenous and exogenous the politics of religious phenomena in the Age of Neoliberalism and the hybrid areas emerging from these reconfigurations of religion and the market Outlining changes in both the political institutional and cultural spheres the contributors offer an international overview of developments in different countries and state of the art representation of religion in the new global political economy The World of Consumption Ben Fine,2002 An analysis of the cluttered landscape of studies of consumption examining themes such as the world of commodities economic imperialism and globalization and the consumer society Material Culture Kenneth L. Ames,1985 Food and the Self Isabelle de Solier,2013-10-10 We often hear that selves are no longer formed through producing material things at work but by consuming them in leisure leading to meaningless modern lives This important book reveals the cultural shift to be more complex demonstrating how people in postindustrial societies strive to form meaningful and moral selves through both the consumption and production of material culture in leisure Focusing on the material culture of food the book explores these theoretical questions through an ethnography of those individuals for whom food is central to their self foodies It examines what foodies do and why they do it through an in depth study of their lived experiences The book uncovers how food offers a means of shaping the self not as a consumer but as an amateur who engages in both the production and consumption of material culture and adopts a professional approach which reveals the new moralities of productive leisure in self formation The chapters examine a variety of practices from fine dining and shopping to cooking and blogging and include rare data on how people use media such as cookbooks food television and digital food media in their everyday life This book is ideal for students scholars and anyone interested in the meaning of food in modern life Gender, Taste, and Material Culture in Britain and North America, 1700-1830 John Styles,Amanda Vickery,2006 Between 1700 and 1830 men and women in the English speaking territories framing the Atlantic gained unprecedented access to material things The British Atlantic was an empire of goods held together not just by political authority and a common language but by a shared material culture nourished by constant flows of commodities Diets expanded to include exotic luxuries such as tea and sugar the fruits of mercantile and colonial expansion Homes were furnished with novel goods like clocks and earthenware teapots the products of British industrial ingenuity This groundbreaking book compares these developments in Britain and North America bringing together a multi disciplinary group of scholars to consider basic questions about women men and objects in these regions In asking who did the shopping how things were used and why they became the subject of political dispute the essays show the profound significance of everyday objects in the eighteenth century Atlantic world The Consumer Society

Material Culture and Consumer Society Mark Staniforth, 2012-09-18 The establishment of a consumer society in Australia has not been a particularly well explored area of academic inquiry My interests lie in the concepts and meanings that underlie the material world ideas like in the words of Madonna I am a material girl and I live in a material world terminology taken to be not gender specific the classic graffiti paraphrasing of Descartes I shop therefore I am or perhaps simply in the world of goods in the more academically respectable terms of Douglas and Isherwood 1979 This book arises out of my longstanding interest in the early colonial period in Australia In part it represents an extension of the purely historical research conducted for my Master's thesis in the Department of History at the University of Sydney which explored aspects of the diet health and lived experience of convicts and immigrants during their voyages to the Australian colonies within the timeframe 1837 to 1839 Staniforth 1993a More importantly it is the culmination of more than twenty five years involvement in the excavation of shipwreck sites in Australia starting with James Matthews 1841 in 1974 through the test excavation of William Salthouse in 1982 continuing with my involvement between 1985 and 1994 in the excavation of Sydney Cove 1797 and most recently with shore based whaling stations and whaling shipwreck sites In this respect this book may be seen as an example of what Ian Hodder 1986 p
