Materialist Feminisms:

Materialist Feminisms Donna Landry, Gerald McLean, 1993-10-08 Materialist Feminisms investigates the crucial theoretical and political debates that have determined the course of British and American feminism over the last thirty years. As intellectual terrain has shifted during these decades from Marxism to cultural materialism and poststructuralist literary theory, questions of race and ethnicity, sexuality, postcoloniality and green politics have converged and sometimes collided with the categories within feminism but analyze many of the most important texts and movements of contemporary cultural theory. Offering not so much a unified history as an analysis of important moments within these debates, this book examines the work of such feminist theorists as Michele Barrett, Judith Butler, Rosalind Coward, Donna Haraway, bell hooks, the m/f collective, Tania Modleski, Jacqueline Rose, Gayle Rubin, Hortense Spillers, and Gayatri Spivak. Materialist Feminisms includes new exemplary readings of feminist detective African American and postcolonial fiction, three kinds of textures commodity currently fetishized in the literary marketplace. What might the success of these kinds of writing signify about politics and desire in contemporary Anglo American culture? Demonstrating how the poststructuralist critique of essences and identities need not end in a complete paralysis of political action as has sometimes been claimed, Materialist Feminisms argues that feminism, socialism, and deconstruction are not theoretical dead ends but names for unfinished business.

Materialist Feminism Rosemary Hennessy, Chrys Ingraham, 1997 During the 1980s, capitalism triumphantly secured its global reach; anti-communist ideologies hammered home socialism's inherent failure. The New Left increasingly moved into the professional middle class and many of feminism's earlier priorities were marginalized. Identity politics, often formulated in terms of social reconstructionism or multiculturalism, has increasingly suppressed materialist feminism's systematic perspective, replacing it with discourse analysis or cultural politics. Materialist Feminism: A Reader argues against the retreat to multiculturalism for keeping invisible the material links among the explosion of meaning-making practices in highly industrialized social sectors, the exploitation of women's labor, and the appropriation of women's bodies that continues to undergird the scramble for profits and state power in multinational capitalism.

Materialist Feminism and the Politics of Discourse (RLE Feminist Theory) Rosemary Hennessy, 2012-11-27 Materialist Feminism and the Politics of Discourse confronts the impasses in materialist feminist work on rethinking woman as a discursively constructed subject. The book looks at the problem of examining critically the social dimensions on which theories of discourse are premised, how such theories understand materiality, the relation between women's experience and feminist politics, and that between history and discourse. Rosemary Hennessy considers the work of Kristeva, Foucault, Laclau, and Mouffe, and argues for a materialist feminist re-articulation of discourse as ideology. Concerns over identity and difference are incorporated into a rewriting of materialist feminism's analysis of women's oppression across capitalist and patriarchal structures. In adapting postmodernist theories in this way, Hennessy develops a project of social change where feminism while maintaining its specificity is necessarily aligned with other emancipatory movements Mattering Victoria Pitts-Taylor, 2016-08-30 Feminists today are re-imagining nature, biology and matter in feminist thought and critically addressing new developments in biology, physics, neuroscience, epigenetics and other scientific disciplines. Mattering edited by noted feminist scholar Victoria Pitts Taylor presents contemporary feminist perspectives on the materialist or naturalizing turn in feminist theory and also represents the newest wave of feminist engagement with science. The volume addresses the relationship between human corporeality and subjectivity, questions and redefines the boundaries of human, non-human and nature culture. It elaborates on the entanglements of matter, knowledge and practice and addresses biological materialization as a complex and open process. This volume insists that feminist theory can take matter and biology seriously while also accounting for power taking. Materialism as a point of departure to rethink key feminist issues. The contributors, an international group of feminist theorists, scientists and scholars, apply concepts in contemporary materialist feminism to examine an array of topics in science, biotechnology, biopolitics and bioethics. These include neural plasticity and the brain-machine interface, the use of biometrical identification technologies for transnational border control, epigenetics and the intergenerational transmission of the health effects of social stigma, ADHD and neuropharmacology, and randomized controlled trials of HIV drugs. A unique and interdisciplinary collection, Mattering presents in grounded concrete terms the need for rethinking disciplinary boundaries and research methodologies in light of the shifts in feminist theorizing and transformations in the sciences. Encyclopedia of Feminist Literary Theory Elizabeth Kowaleski-Wallace, 2009-03-23 First Published in 1997 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an Informa company. Companion to Feminist Studies Nancy A. Naples, 2020-11-24 A comprehensive overview of feminist scholarship edited by an internationally recognized and leading figure in the field. Companion to Feminist Studies provides a broad overview of the rich history and the multitude of approaches, theories, concepts and debates central to this dynamic interdisciplinary field. Comprehensive yet accessible, this edited volume offers expert insights from contributors of diverse academic, national and activist backgrounds discussing contemporary research and themes while offering international, postcolonial and intersectional perspectives on social, political, cultural and economic institutions, social media, social justice movements, everyday discourse and more. Organized around three different dimensions of Feminist Studies, the Companion begins by exploring ten theoretical frameworks including feminist epistemologies, examining Marxist and Socialist Feminism, the activism of radical feminists, the contributions of Black feminist thought and interrelated approaches to the fluidity of gender and sexuality. The second section focuses on methodologies and analytical frameworks developed by feminist scholars including empiricists, economists, ethnographers, cultural analysts and historiographers. The volume concludes with a detailed discussion of the many ways in which pedagogy, political ecology, social justice, globalization and other areas within Feminist Studies are shaped by feminism in practice. Materialist Feminism and the Politics of Discourse Rosemary Hennessy,1993 Rosemary Hennessy confronts some of the impasses in materialist feminist work on rethinking woman as a discursively constructed subject She argues for a theory of discourse as ideology taking into account the work of Kristeva Foucault and Laclau Woman Questions Lise Vogel,1995 For more than two decades Lise Vogel has been an important voice in feminist theory Woman Questions brings Drawing upon the life stori essays on socialist feminism Marxist theory and the problem of equality The collection provides not only a compendium of one influential thinker s work but a thoughtful overview of the evolution of US socialist feminism The essays are grouped in three sections covering the relationship between feminism and socialism the significance of the Marxist theoretical tradition for women s liberation and issues of difference diversity and equality A lengthy autobiographical introduction offers readers access to Vogel s personal story of civil rights work in Mississippi the early women s liberation movement a radical career switch and growing up in a politically active family Material Feminisms: New Directions for Education Carol Taylor,Gabrielle Ivinson,2018-02-02 Material Feminisms New Directions for Education provides a range of powerful theoretical and innovative methodological examples to illuminate how new material feminism can be put to work in education to open up new avenues of research design and practice It poses challenging questions about the nature of knowledge production the role of the researcher and the critical endeavour arising from inter and post disciplinarity Working with diffractive methodologies and new materialist ecological epistemologies the book offers resources for hope which widen the scope for how educational problems are interrogated and provides a political counter movement to neo positivist outcomes based approaches within education Inspired by writers such as Barad Bennett and Deleuze and Guattari the book makes a radical break with cognitive dualist and universal conceptions of human subjectivity and intelligence in education By taking its starting point as the co constitutiveness of discourse materiality corporeality and place the book foregrounds educational practices as material enactments of multiple non linear entangled affective and relational forces It offers new insights into how gender class and ethnicity are constituted in and by material assemblages that are often submerged or unseen This book is an essential starting place for those intrigued by what new theoretical accounts of materiality posthumanism and affect can offer educational research Diffractive methodologies challenge readers to take a fuller range of actors into account than in objective humanist methodologies and in so doing to pay closer attention to what data is It invites researchers to engage with long standing feminist concerns about power and knowledge production in research processes This book was originally published as a special issue of Gender and Education

Material Feminisms Stacy Alaimo,Susan J. Hekman,2008 Harnessing the energy of provocative theories generated by recent understandings of the human body the natural world and the material world Material Feminisms presents an entirely new way for feminists to conceive of the question of materiality In lively and timely essays an international group of feminist thinkers challenges the assumptions and norms that have previously defined studies about the body These wide ranging essays grapple with topics such as the material reality of race the significance of sexual difference the impact of disability experience and the complex interaction between nature and culture in traumatic events such as Hurricane Katrina By insisting on the importance of materiality this volume breaks new ground in philosophy feminist theory cultural studies science studies and other fields where the body and nature collide Materialist Feminism Toril Moi,Janice A. Radway,1994

Materialist feminism is not an unproblematic term Its relationship to what was called socialist feminism in the 1970s and early 1980s is far from clear This special issue of SAQ does not resolve these questions Instead of providing a theory of materialist feminism in the abstract the authors have tried to build up a provisional tentative picture of what a materialist feminism might look like in the 1990s

Feminism and Materialism Annette Kuhn,AnnMarie Wolpe,2012-10-11 These original essays are planned to provide a coherent basis for an understanding of women's social and historical situation This is achieved by outlining the foundation of a systematic approach to an analysis of women's relationship to modes of production and reproduction within a materialist framework The essays each with a brief editorial introduction deal with issues and perspectives brought increasingly to the fore in recent years not only in the women's movement but in the social sciences generally The articles are wide ranging covering such issues as patriarchy paid and unpaid labour and the state The centrality of two of the major themes the family and the labour process suggests that an understanding of women's situation is necessarily based on an analysis of the structures of production and reproduction The authors aim in producing Feminism and Materialism is to confront systematically theoretical issues current in the developing area of women s studies while recognising that this must constitute a critique of existing theoretical frameworks The book will be of interest to teachers and students in the social sciences and in women s studies as well as to all those who wish to develop an understanding of what a materialist approach to feminism might be Ludic Feminism and After Teresa L. universalism These theoretical positions have been variously critiqued as racist sexist as well as Eurocentric Drawing on metaphysics and ethics with protagonists drawn from traditions across analytic and continental philosophy and feminist theory Assiter challenges these critics to form a distinctive new materialist position Most people defenders and critics take for granted that the concept of human rights and the universal view of humanity derive from the European Enlightenment However this bookdevelops a different story of its origin from the earlier period of both Aristotle and the Zoroastrian Persian Empire and locates the concept of a right partly in our biological core yet challenges the assumption that this is constructed by language of any kind specifically including scientific discourse Gender, ArtWork and the Global Imperative Angela Dimitrakaki,2014-06-05 Is gender implicated in how art does its work in the world created by global capital Is a global imperative exclusive to capital s planetary expansion or also witnessed in oppositional practices in art and curating And what is new in the gendered paradigms of art after the fall of the Berlin Wall Angela Dimitrakaki addresses these questions in an insightful and highly original analysis of travel as artistic labour the sexualisation of migration as a relationship between Eastern and Western Europe the rise of female collectives masculinity and globalisation s bad boys the emergence of a gendered economic subject that has dethroned postmodernism and the need for a renewed materialist feminism This is a theoretically astute overview of developments in art and its contexts since the 1990s and the first study to attempt a critical refocusing of feminist politics in art history in the wake of globalisation It will be essential reading in art history gender feminist and globalisation studies curatorial theory cultural studies and beyond The Matter of Difference Valerie Wayne,1991 This lively volume investigates Shakespeare s plays in terms of the relations between material conditions of Renaissance culture and differences of gender class race and erotic practice
