Markets In Africa:

Markets in Africa Paul Bohannan,George Dalton,1965 Eight essays selected from the twenty eight in the edition published in 1962 Bibliography p 342 362    Markets in Africa Paul Bohannan,George Dalton,1962    Markets in West Africa B. W. Hodder,U. I. Ukwu,1969 Study of rural areas and urban areas markets commerce marketing and distribution networks within two major areas of West Africa particularly Nigeria covers the development of trade and markets in yorubaland and iboland and includes sociological aspects the economic functions of periodic and daily markets the patterns of trade and retail marketing etc Diagrams maps references and statistical tables    Markets and States in Tropical Africa Robert H. Bates,2014-04-12 Following independence most countries in Africa sought to develop but their governments pursued policies that actually undermined their rural economies Examining the origins of Africa s growth tragedy Markets and States in Tropical Africa has for decades shaped the thinking of practitioners and scholars alike Robert H Bates s analysis now faces a challenge however the revival of economic growth on the continent In this edition Bates provides a new preface and chapter that address the seeds of Africa s recovery and discuss the significance of the continent s success for the arguments of this classic work    Base of the Pyramid Markets in Africa Judy N. Muthuri,Marlen Gabriele Arnold,Stefan Gold,Ximena Rueda,2020-07-27 This book focuses on the Base of the Pyramid BOP in Africa and examines the role of the private sector in the fight against poverty The BOP concept which is a market based approach to poverty eradication presents a great avenue for businesses to develop opportunities and new business models that enable and empower those in the BOP population in Africa to raise their socio economic welfare and well being The BOP market and the business interest in the BOP in Africa is rising This book furthers our understanding of the characteristics of BOP markets in Africa and the challenges and opportunities to address poverty and development in a sustainable manner The book covers various themes of BOP markets and their embeddedness in social cultural settings in Africa The different chapters employ a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches to advance research and practice of BOP in Africa The book chapters reflect multiple diversities that characterise sub Saharan Africa based on studies in 13 country contexts and from five industry sectors This book is recommended reading for managers and policy makers as well as students and academics interested in Base of the Pyramid markets    Markets in Africa Paul Bohannan,George Dalton,1954    Food Systems in Africa Gaëlle Balineau,Arthur Bauer,Martin Kessler,Nicole Madariaga,2021-02-08 Rapid population growth poorly planned urbanization and evolving agricultural production and distribution practices are changing foodways in African cities and creating challenges Africans are increasingly facing hunger undernutrition and malnutrition Yet change also creates new opportunities The food economy currently is the main source of jobs on the continent promising more employment in the near future in farming food processing and food product distribution These opportunities are undermined however by inefficient links among farmers intermediaries and consumers leading to the loss of one third of all food produced This volume is an in depth analysis of food system shortcomings in three West African cities Abidjan Côte d'Ivoire Rabat Morocco and Niamey Niger. Using the lens of geographical economics and sociology the authors draw on quantitative and qualitative field surveys and case studies to offer insightful analyses of political institutions. They show the importance of hard physical infrastructure such as transport storage and wholesale and retail market facilities. They also describe the soft infrastructure of institutions that facilitate trade such as interpersonal trust market information systems and business climates. The authors find that the vague mandates and limited capacities of national trade and agriculture ministries regional and urban authorities neighborhood councils and market cooperatives often hamper policy interventions. This volume comes to a simple conclusion: international development policy makers and their financial and technical partners have neglected urban markets for far too long and now is the time to rethink and reinvest in this complex yet crucial subject.

Trade and Markets in West Africa Claude Meillassoux, 2018-09-03 Originally published in 1971 and written in English and French with summaries in both languages the essays in this volume discuss the effects of internal economic and political conditions and of external relations on the development of trade and markets in West Africa from the period of the slave trade to the growth in the 20th century in production for overseas markets and rapidly expanding urban centres. Other essays discuss various aspects of local and regional trade and markets from the nineteenth century onwards.

Reforming agricultural markets in Africa Kherallah, Mylene, Delgado, Christopher L., Gabre-Madhin, Eleni Z., Minot, Nicholas, Johnson, Michael, 2002-01-01 The long term reduction of hunger and poverty in Sub Saharan Africa remains one of the great challenges for the international development community. Eliminating hunger and promoting widespread growth in the region inevitably involves agriculture given its central role in the region's economies. Over the past 20 years most African governments have carried out reforms to deregulate agricultural markets and reduce the role of state enterprises. How much has the state actually withdrawn from agricultural markets? Have well functioning private markets emerged? How successful were these reforms in boosting agricultural production, economic growth and the incomes of the rural poor? What lessons can we learn from the reform process? The authors of this book address these questions through an analysis based on an extensive review of experiences with reform focusing on three major agricultural markets: fertilizer, food crops and export crops. They examine the historical rationales for intervention, the factors contributing to reform, the process of implementation and the impact of the reforms on farmers and consumers in Sub Saharan Africa. The authors find that reforms have had many favorable results but that the impact has been muted by partial implementation and structural constraints. They propose a new agenda for promoting the development of agricultural markets in Sub Saharan Africa identifying areas where governments can play a supportive role. They argue that appropriate agricultural marketing policies and investments can improve livelihoods and the economic health of the region.

The Emergence of Land Markets in Africa Stein Holden, Keijiro Otsuka, Frank Place, 2010-09-30 This book is the first systematic attempt to address emerging land markets and their implications for poverty equity and efficiency across a number of African countries. The high incidence of poverty and the need for increased agricultural productivity remain acute in rural areas of sub Saharan Africa where a lack of secure land rights and a growing scarcity of land relative to the size of the population are becoming increasingly critical issues. Indeed land issues in the region are high on the international policy agenda. Yet our knowledge about land tenure security and other rural factor markets such as labor oxen manure purchased inputs and credit is far from adequate to formulate sensible policies. The case studies in the book show that while land markets and especially informal markets have been rapidly emerging in densely populated parts of Africa and have generally been to the benefit of the poor their functions remain imperfect. This is due to policy induced tenure insecurity and the fragmentation of agricultural land. Applying rigorous quantitative analyses the book provides a basis for taking into account the role of land markets in national land policies. All too often the authors argue land policies have been extreme either prohibiting all land transactions or giving unrestricted freehold rights to a small elite at the expense of the poor. From the long experience in Asia it is known that such policies are detrimental to both production efficiency and equity of land use. The authors argue that future policies in Africa should work with the markets. Regulations should be imposed only with careful testing that they are having the intended effects. The Emergence of Land Markets in Africa is a resource for teaching in developed and developing countries as it provides both comprehensive reviews of the literature and detailed case studies. It is intended to facilitate the dialogue between researchers and policymakers as well as inspire researchers to go further in their investigations and build an even stronger basis for good policies. The Emergence of Land Markets in Africa is the first publication in the new Environment for Development EfD book series. EfD books focus on research and applications in environmental and natural resource economics as they are relevant to poverty reduction and environmental problems in developing countries. The EfD book series is part of the EfD initiative www.environmentfordevelopment.org

Efficient Market Hypothesis in Africa's Sub-Saharan Stock Markets Sebastian Groh, 2009-10-03 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2009 in the subject Economics Case Scenarios grade 1 3 University of Mannheim Lehrstuhl f r Volkswirtschaftslehre insbes konometrie course Bachelorarbeit language English abstract In recent years foreign aid was often conditioned on good institutions. Due to this course the development of financial institutions has been considered vital for the development process. This thesis points in its theoretical part to the positive effects of efficient stock markets on economic growth and examines empirically the efficiency of Africa's sub Saharan stock markets. Results are then compared with the same tests on four emerging markets in Asia and as a benchmark on S P 500 and DAX. It discusses further the relationship between market efficiency and financial crisis and comes to the conclusion that a crisis worsens the respective efficiency level. Nevertheless all African markets are at least able to pass the critical lowest hurdle of market efficiency. However conclusions from the research propose that the Asian markets perform better than the African markets although the study comes to some inconclusive results. Limits to the efficient market hypothesis itself and its empirical analysis are shown throughout the paper The study suggests that former reforms need to be intensified in order to avoid a further increase in overall income inequalities

Emerging Business Opportunities in Africa: Market Entry, Competitive Strategy, and the Promotion of Foreign Direct Investments Gekonge, Christopher O., 2013-09-30 Despite its often mismanaged economy Africa remains the third largest continent in land mass and population It continues to offer unexploited business opportunities for entrepreneurs global corporations and institutions Emerging Business Opportunities in Africa Market Entry Competitive Strategy and the Promotion of Foreign Direct Investments presents the basic business modeling for developing appropriate strategies in exploiting these business opportunities in the emerging economy in Africa This book offers insight into the challenges and successes aiming to encourage researchers and students of business in creating a value for doing business in Africa

Stock Market Development in Sub-Saharan Africa Charles Amo Yartey, Charles Komla Adjasi, 2007-08 This paper examines the economic importance of stock markets in Africa It discusses policy options for promoting the development of the stock market in Africa The results of the paper show that the stock markets have contributed to the financing of the growth of large corporations in certain African countries An econometric investigation of the impact of stock markets on growth in selected African countries however finds inconclusive evidence even though stock market value traded seem to be positively and significantly associated with growth African stock exchanges now face the challenge of integration and need better technical and institutional development to address the problem of low liquidity Preconditions for successful regional approaches include the harmonization of legislations such as bankruptcy and accounting laws and a liberalized trade regime Robust electronic trading systems and central depository systems will be important Further domestic financial liberalization such as steps to improve the legal and accounting framework private sector credit evaluation capabilities and public sector regulatory oversight would also be beneficial

Fox, Mor Bakhoun, 2018-12-19 This book focuses on market law and policy in sub Saharan Africa showing how markets can be harnessed by poorer and developing economies to help make the markets work for them to help them integrate into the world economy and provide a better standard of living for their people while preserving their values of inclusive development It explores uses of power both by dominant firms often multinationals and incumbent governments and cronies to ring fence their market positions and deprive rivals often the indigenous people from fair access to markets and highlights how competition authorities are pushing back and winning fair access lowering prices of goods and services especially for the poorer population The book also examines the next level up regionalism and provides the facts that show how regionalism has so far failed to meet its promise of freeing markets from cross border restraints by large firms that operate across national borders On the more technical side the book takes a deep look at the competition policies of sets of nations in sub Saharan Africa West South eastern and South It examines the performance of the competition authorities of particular nations including how they handle cartels monopolies and mergers their standards of illegality and their methodologies for incorporating public interest values into their analyses Observing the good works by a number of the national competition authorities the book is optimistic about the role of the national competition authorities in protecting the people from abuses of economic power and perhaps in the future the role of regional authorities and less formal networks in promoting an African voice in defence of competition

Bond Markets in Africa Mr. Yibin Mu, Mr. Peter Phelps, Ms. Janet Gale Stotsky, 2013-01-14 African bond markets have been steadily growing in recent years but nonetheless remain undeveloped African countries would benefit from greater access to financing and deeper financial markets This paper compiles a unique set of data on corporate bond markets in Africa It then applies an econometric model to analyze the key determinants of African government securities market and corporate bond market capitalization Government securities market capitalization is directly related to better institutions and interest rate volatility and inversely related to the fiscal balance higher interest rate spreads exchange rate volatility and current and capital account openness Corporate bond market capitalization is directly linked to economic size the level of development of the economy and financial markets better institutions and interest rate volatility and inversely related to higher interest rate spreads and current account openness Policy implications follow

Making Medicines in Africa Maureen Mackintosh, Geoffrey Banda, Watu Wamae, Paula Tibandebeage, 2016-02-03 This book is open access under a CC BY license The importance of the pharmaceutical industry in Sub Saharan Africa its claim to policy priority is rooted in the vast unmet health needs of the sub continent Making Medicines in Africa is a collective endeavour by a group of contributors with a strong African and more broadly Southern presence to find ways to link technological development investment and industrial growth in pharmaceuticals to improve access to essential good quality medicines as part of moving towards universal access to competent health care in Africa The authors aim to shift the emphasis in international debate and initiatives towards sustained Africa based and African led initiatives to tackle this huge challenge Without the technological industrial intellectual organisational and research related capabilities associated with competent pharmaceutical production and without policies that pull the industrial sectors towards serving local health needs the African sub continent cannot generate the resources to tackle its populations needs and demands Research for this book has been selected as one of the 20 best examples of the impact of UK research on development See <http://www.ukcds.org.uk> the global impact of uk research for further details Africa agriculture trade monitor 2018 Badiane, O.
