Aldous,1967 Crafting Marriages Enaya Hammad Othman,2025-10-15 In Crafting Marriages Palestinian American Women Transforming Gender Boundaries Enaya Othman draws on three decades of ethnographic research to chart how Palestinian women have reimagined and reshaped marriage practices across generations Through careful analysis of over sixty personal narratives family documents and marriage videos Othman reveals how these women have become key agents of cultural change negotiating between traditional expectations and contemporary possibilities Her research highlights the complexity of Palestinian American marriages shaped by the dynamic interplay of religious identity cultural heritage and modern American life Othman s groundbreaking study shows how the rise of global Islamic revival movements since the 1970s have created new opportunities for Palestinian women to challenge traditional marriage customs By emphasizing Islamic values over ethnic ties younger generations are expanding the boundaries of acceptable marriage partners across racial cultural and national lines reshaping the meaning of marriage in diaspora Crafting Marriages provides valuable insights into how Palestinian American women navigate the balance between tradition and transformation contributing to broader discussions on gender agency and cultural change in transnational contexts

Modern Love Marcus Collins,2006-06 Private life has altered beyond all recognition during the past one hundred years Britain in 1900 was emerging from a Victorian era in which prudery patriarchal authority and pettifogging rules of etiquette were widely perceived to have circumscribed relations between men and women. The twentieth century witnessed a reaction against this system of separate spheres spearheaded by reformers eager that the sexes become each other's equals and intimates. Modern Love traces the trajectory of this new model of personal relationships over the course of the twentieth century from its emergence out of the crucible of the suffrage campaign through its reshaping by the women's liberation movement. It explores its impact on smut merchants, warring couples, and teenagers, as well as its reception by such diverse figures as Bertrand Russell and Germaine Greer. It draws on sources as varied as suffragette propaganda, banned sex manuals, marriage counseling literature, and pin-up magazines. Marcus Collins teaches modern British history at Emory University.

Over 300 contributors from around the world have composed critical assessments of historians from the beginning of historical writing to the present day, including individuals from related disciplines like Jürgen Habermas and Clifford Geertz whose theoretical contributions have informed historical debate. Additionally, the Encyclopedia includes some 200 essays treating the development of national, regional, and topical historiographies from the Ancient Near East to the history of sexuality. In addition to the Western tradition, it includes substantial assessments of African, Asian, and Latin American historians and debates on gender and subaltern studies.
