Merging Traditions:

Merging Traditions John Gray,1996-10 In recent years two simple questions have come to dominate the policy making agenda How does one tell a good school from a bad one And how does one set about improving schools In this volume leading British researchers in school effectiveness and school improvement explore recent research evidence from their respective perspectives and seek to identify ways of integrating the two traditions The result is a distinctive mix of approaches and perspectives harnessed to the cause of improving both the quality of research and the quality of the practice of judging and improving schools This collection is at the leading edge of the field with new material on the international dimension and theory generation on school improvement amongst other current issues It is thus a timely successor to School Effectiveness Cassell by Reynolds and Cuttance      Merging traditions Sidney Z. Vincent,Judah Rubinstein,1978      An Architecture of Immanence Mark A. Torgerson,2007-01-22 Torgerson begins by discussing God s transcendence and immanence and showing how church architecture has traditionally interpreted these key concepts He then traces the theological roots of immanence s priority from liberal theology and liturgical innovation to modern architecture Next Torgerson illustrates this new architecture of immanence through particular practitioners focusing especially on the work of theologically savvy architect Edward Anders S vik Finally he addresses the future of church architecture as congregations are buffeted by the twin forces of liturgical change and postmodernism      The Matthean Parables Ivor H. Jones,2014-04-09 The Matthean Parables offers a fresh approach to the origin of Matthew s Gospel It builds on current historical literary rhetorical and sociological studies of Matthew s Gospel to show how the Matthean parables illuminate the structure purpose and theology of that gospel The first part of the book establishes the need for a new attempt to define the genre of Matthew s Gospel examines what is meant by a parable and summarises the contribution made by the parables to that new attempt The second part is a thorough exegetical historical critical and literary study of all the Matthean parables in the context of the whole gospel and in the light of all the Matthean figurative material An appendix illustrates the use of syntactical material in defining the character and style of a biblical text      Diversity in the Structure of Christian Reasoning Joshua Broggi,2015-06-24 Diversity in the Structure of Christian Reasoning examines the effect of Christian commitments on rationality When Christians read scripture traditions supply concepts that shape what counts as normal good and true This book offers an account of how different communities produce divergent readings of the Bible It considers two examples from World Christianity first a Bakongo community in central Africa and then a Tamil bishop in southern India Each case displays a relation between tradition and reason that reconfigures the hermeneutical picture developed by Martin Heidegger and Hans Georg Gadamer To see what transpires when readers decide about a correct interpretation this book offers theologians and scholars of religion a fresh strategy that keeps in view the global character of modern Christianity      "A Link in the Great American Chain" Ira Robinson,2023-05-16 This book brings together six articles the author has published in recent years on the development of the Orthodox Jewish community in Cleveland Ohio While a number of scholars have ably presented important parts of the history of Jewish Orthodoxy in Cleveland Ohio this book is a first attempt to deal comprehensively with the story of Cleveland Orthodox Judaism Chapters one and two taken together present a connected narrative history of the evolution of the Jewish Orthodox community in Cleveland Ohio from its beginnings to the early twenty first century The succeeding chapters present in greater detail persons and institutions of great importance to the historical development of the Orthodox community

Merging Traditions Judah Rubinstein, Jane Avner, 2004 Published in cooperation with the Western Reserve Historical Society Out of a small group of Jewish settlers that came to Cleveland in 1839 sprang the large vibrant and diverse Jewish community numbering in excess of 81 500 that has contributed significantly to Cleveland's life At the turn of the century many immigrants found work in Cleveland's thriving garment industry then second only to New York's Others entered the building trades and those with entrepreneurial inclinations opened retail stores dedicated to serving their Jewish neighborhoods The entry of Jews into the business mainstream facilitated inclusion into nearly every area of community endeavor civic life education and culture During World War II the community began to move to the suburbs with Cleveland Heights emerging as the largest Jewish neighborhood outside of Cleveland The exodus to the suburbs continued unabated until the mid 1950s practically emptying the central city of its Jewish population Many moved still farther east in the 1960s As families left the traditional Jewish enclaves for more affluent areas and purchased larger properties in the suburbs the synagogues and Jewish institutions and facilities also migrated At the time of his death in February 2003 Judah Rubinstein was working on this second edition of Merging Traditions Jewish Life in Cleveland which he initially co wrote with the late Sidney Z Vincent in 1978 This revised and updated pictorial review of the nearly two century history of the Jewish community tells the story of Jewish settlement and achievement in Northeast Ohio and continues in the spirit of the original illuminating the struggles and the successes of one particular immigrant group and providing a valuable perspective on Cleveland's Jewish community past and present
