Meteor Burst Communications Donald L. Schilling, 1993-04-12 Explores the meteor burst channel. Leading experts in the communications field cover the research, military and commercial applications of this subject. Following an introduction to the technology, early chapters describe this channel, the theory and modeling techniques used to simulate it and the use of variable data rate transmission for efficient communication. Later chapters present a method for implementing such a system using FM techniques, compare experimental results with theory, offer additional theoretical results obtained for the variable data rate techniques and discuss the improvement obtained through the use of forward error correction coding.

Preferential Emergency Communications Ken Carlberg, Robert Desourdis, James Polk, Ian Brown, 2012-12-06 Preferential Emergency Communications. From Telecommunications to the Internet, a professional monograph is divided into three sections. The first describes systems and protocols that have been deployed as private networks for use by government agencies like the U.S. Department of Defense. This section also presents an in-depth discussion on MLPP. We then present current work in the area of Land Mobile Radio commonly used by local emergency personnel such as police and fireman. This second section also describes systems that have been deployed over the public switched telephone network. Finally the third section presents insights on trying to support emergency communications over TCP/IP networks and the Internet. In this last item we look into what IETF protocols can be considered candidates for change as well as those protocols and applications that should not be altered.

ITS Architecture, 1996 Building the FirstNet Public Safety Broadband Network Robert I. Desourdis, Jr., Rob Dew, Mark O'Brien, Holger Hinsch, 2015-03-01 This new resource explains the critical steps involved in planning, designing, implementing and sustaining the FirstNet public safety LTE network. Wireless network planners, engineers and managers are presented with emerging broadband technologies and their immediate impact on FirstNet planning such as LTE access class mechanisms and digital television datacasting in its complementary role to LTE.
