Metadata In Practice:

Metadata in Practice Diane I. Hillmann, Elaine L. Westbrooks, American Library Association, 2004-06-07 This collection of reports from the field is an opportunity for librarians to learn from the experience of others involved in technically diverse digital library archive projects. It offers project planners metadata librarians systems and technical services librarians and catalogers a problem solving approach and real world supplement function as an essential mechanism for metadata planning, application and management and interoperability. There has been a rapidly growing body of digital repositories and collections accordingly a wide range of digital projects and initiatives have adopted various metadata standards. Because of differences in the formats and knowledge domains of the resources it is inevitable that these digital projects and initiatives may have different needs regarding metadata. Therefore when a metadata standard is adopted in various institutions and organizations it may have to be modified to reflect the community needs and characteristics of given resources. The flexibility and complex structure of natural language allow for the representation of a concept in various ways. Thus common understanding and definitions of terms in a given metadata standard is essential for quality metadata generation, management, interoperability and resource sharing. This opens up a pressing need for a systematic examination of documentation practices an area that up to now has been relatively unexplored. This book begins to fill the research gap through an empirical assessment of metadata guidelines and best practices. This is a book published as a special issue of the Journal of Library Metadata

Moving Theory Into Practice Anne R. Kenney, Oya Y. Rieger, 2000

Describes techniques for the digital conversion of library and archive materials. Covers decision making in conversion and presentation, quality control techniques and practical aspects of image management and use. Describes how to move from digital conversion projects to sustainable programmes. Provides guidance on the selection of materials for digital conversion

Exploring Contemporary Classification Practices Jack Andersen, Joacim Hansson, 2025-07-15 The contributions in Exploring Contemporary Classification Practices analyse various aspects of classification and their importance to contemporary debates surrounding cultural heritage and information access. Specific focus is on systems of classification, media technologies and cultural institutions such as libraries, archives and museums and how they respond to challenges including classificatory bias, truth neutrality, institutional tradition and technological innovation. Raising awareness of classification practices in modern culture serves to emphasize how sorting things into categories is both an everyday accomplishment and a highly cultural and political activity with consequences for those who are classified and for those who Throughout this book classification is defined as the practice and activity of systematically ordering and categorizing entities to bring structure and understanding to diverse contexts. This book addresses several timely issues both in terms of theoretical advancement and empirical diversity. The scholarly discussion on the classification and organization of knowledge has developed with digital technologies from a bibliographic paradigm into something much wider as the need for metadata and classification has become critical for usability and legitimacy. This development has also led research on classification and knowledge organization to confront a new post humanist reality with not only emerging varieties of information currents in society but also the development of new theoretical and methodological strands such as post colonial and intersectional perspectives and digital humanities methodologies. In doing so this book seeks to address critical questions for the archives, library and museum sectors concerning the organization of information. Exploring Contemporary Classification Practices will therefore be of interest to academics, researchers and practitioners with interests in library and information science, archives, cultural heritage and digital heritage.

Examine cataloging and classification training programs around the world. Education for Library Cataloging International Perspectives examines the global development of educational programs for cataloging and classification in the library and information field. Library school faculty and professional librarians from more than 20 countries discuss a wide range of topics including formal school and continuing education of catalog librarians, education and training for paraprofessional staff in cataloging and technical services, changes in library school programs and metadata and information organization instruction. Faculty members and seasoned librarians from Europe, Africa, Asia, Australia, Latin America and the Middle East present case studies and overviews of library and information school programs, bibliographies of cited works in both Western and non-Western language literature and plenty of helpful tables and charts. Articles presented in Education for Library Cataloging International Perspectives are organized geographically to make it easier to check which countries are covered in each region and to determine regional similarities and differences. Political, historical, cultural, religious and linguistic factors were also considered to demonstrate the wide range of educational efforts and programs to cultivate cataloging professionals all over the world. Topics examined in Education for Library Cataloging International Perspectives include education and training development for librarians in the University of Botswana Library, the library science school curricula in the Cross River State of Nigeria, the training of students in cataloging via distant education in South Africa, education programs in China, the education for knowledge organization including cataloging and classification in India, the current status of cataloging education in Japan, on the job training of catalog librarians in South Korea, the education for cataloging in Australia, how catalog librarians are trained in Germany and Austria, recent changes to the library education system in Poland, a critical study of cataloging instruction within the library and information science programs in Spain, a recent survey of graduate education and training for cataloging and classification in the United Kingdom, an overview of the education for cataloging and classification in Mexico the current status of cataloging and classification education in Egypt recent changes to cataloging teaching in Israel the continuing education for catalogers in Saudi Arabia and much more Many of the articles presented in Education for Library Cataloging International Perspectives document the initial efforts to introduce education for cataloging in particular countries including Egypt and Japan This book is an invaluable resource for library and information school educators administrators and students Organizing Library Collections Gretchen L.
