Christian W. Chun

Introduction: critical discourse analysis or critical discourse studies?

Critical discourse analysis (CDA) as an analytic stance and approach appeared in the 1980s (e.g., Fairclough, 1989), creating a subfield within discourse analysis. In the ensuing 30 years, there has been substantial work done in this area (e.g., Fairclough, 1992a, 2015; Flowerdew, 2008; Gee, 2008; Janks, 1997; Richardson, 2007; Rogers, 2011; van Dijk, 2008; van Leeuwen, 2008; Wodak, 1996; Wodak & Meyer, 2016). However, appropriate to critically oriented scholars' stances and reflexivities (see McKirley, this volume), there have been numerous debates about and within CDA; methodology being one of the most prominent of them. One issue has recently emerged questioning the very term of critical discourse analysis itself – specifically, the seemingly problematic use of the word ‘analysis’. Teun van Dijk (2009) was the first scholar to argue that the term ‘critical discourse analysis’ should be renamed as critical discourse studies (CDS) as this latter, “more general term suggests that such a critical approach not only involves critical analysis, but also critical theory, as well as critical applications” (p. 62). He pointed out that the use of designation CDS “may also avoid the widespread misconception that a critical approach is a method of discourse analysis” (p. 62). Rather, it should be regarded as “a critical perspective or attitude in the field of discourse studies . . . using many different methods of the humanities and social sciences” (van Dijk, 2016, p. 63). Indeed, in their summarizing of van Dijk’s argument of using the new term CDS, Flowerdew and Richardson (2018) wrote, “the rationale for this change of designation resides in the fact CDA was increasingly not restricted to applied analysis, but also included philosophical, theoretical, methodological and practical developments” (p. 2). Hence, the term CDS will be employed in this chapter referring to past and present works in this research area.

CDS approaches: a brief survey

There are numerous approaches in CDS, including (but not limited to) the discourse-historical approach (Reisigl & Wodak, 2016), the socio-cognitive approach (van Dijk, 2016), and corpus linguistics (Mautner, 2016) – all of which are detailed in the recent third edition of Methods of critical discourse studies edited by Wodak and Meyer (2016). However, a discussion detailing

Quality-of-Life Research in Chinese, Western and Global Contexts Daniel T.L. Shek, Ying Keung Chan, Paul S.N.

Lee, 2005-06-08 The majority of studies on the quality of life have been conducted in Western contexts and are based on Western participants Comparatively speaking there are only a few studies that have been conducted in different Chinese contexts Also there are fewer QOL studies based on children and adolescents or studies that examine the relationship between QOL and economic disadvantage In addition more research is needed to address the methodological issues related to the assessment of quality of life This volume is a constructive response to the challenges described above It is the first book to cover research in Chinese Western and global contexts in a single volume It is a ground breaking volume in which Chinese studies on the quality of life are collected The book includes papers addressing family QOL quality of life in adolescents experiencing economic disadvantage and methodological issues in the assessment of QOL It is written by researchers working in a variety of disciplines
