Planning at a metropolitan scale is important for effective management of urban growth transportation systems air quality and watershed and green spaces It is fundamental to efforts to promote social justice and equity Best Practices in Metropolitan Transportation Planning shows how the most innovative metropolitan planning organizations MPOs in the United States are addressing these issues using their mandates to improve transportation networks while pursuing emerging sustainability goals at the same time As both a policy analysis and a practical how to guide this book presents cutting edge original research on the role accessibility plays and should play in transportation planning tracks how existing plans have sought to balance competing priorities using scenario planning and other strategies assesses the results of various efforts to reduce automobile dependence in cities and explains how to make planning documents more powerful and effective In highlighting the most innovative practices implemented by MPOs regional planning councils city and county planning departments and state departments of transportation this book aims to influence other planning organizations as well as influence federal and state policy discussions and legislation      A Guide to Metropolitan Transportation Planning Under ISTEA ,1995 The Federal Highway Administration FHWA and the Federal Transit Administration FTA have prepared this guide for transportation professionals elected officials and policymakers as well as community and business interests who want to understand and participate in the transportation planning and decisionmaking process It has two objectives first to provide a framework for linking the various elements of ISTEA s transportation planning process together in a comprehensive manner and second to provide information suggestions and examples of ways to carry out the metropolitan planning process Part One describes the changes Congress and the President envisioned in the transportation planning and investment process when they enacted ISTEA Part Two discusses the products of the transportation planning process the transportation plan and the Transportation Improvement Program TIP Part Three describes the elements of transportation planning and how metropolitan areas can use them to develop transportation plans and TIPs that meet their needs and the expectations of the Federal Government Part Four provides a reference guide to Federal regulations guidance and other useful information that have been published on ISTEA and the planning process      The Shape of Things to Come ,1997

Criteria to Evaluate Metropolitan Transportation Planning Thomas Morton Jones,1978 With critique of the planning process in Minneapolis St Paul Indianapolis and Rochester New York      Urban Transportation DIANE Publishing Company,United States,1996-12 Discusses the experiences of Metropolitan Planning Organizations MPO s in implementing the planning requirements of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 and examines the extent to which U S urban areas comply with the Act s planning requirements Recommends that the U S Secretary of Transportation develop standard reporting formats for assessing and reporting on the MPO s compliance with the planning requirements so that the Dept can identify any deficiencies and the extent to which the MPO s have made progress in implementing the requirements

Metropolitan Transportation Planning.. Library of Congress. Congressional Research Service,2010 Discusses issues related to State and local metropolitan planning organizations MPOs which are mandated by Federal law in each urbanized area with a population of 50 000 or more to help plan surface transportation infrastructure and services and explains their role in metropolitan transportation planning process Examines decision making and funding authority of MPOs relative to State transportation departments representation and participation in MPOs MPO funding and technical capacity implementation of livability sustainability initiatives and other issues Metropolitan Transportation Planning Seminars

,1970 Crs Report for Congress Congressional Research Service: The Libr,William J. Mallett,2013-11 Federal law requires state and local governments to designate a metropolitan planning organization MPO in each urbanized area with a population of 50 000 or more to help plan surface transportation infrastructure and services There are currently 381 MPOs nationwide Despite some strengthening of their authority over the years MPOs have generally remained subordinate to state departments of transportation DOTs in the planning and selecting programming of projects using federal surface transportation funds Moreover it can be argued that at the metropolitan level MPOs are subordinate to local governments that own and operate many elements of the transportation system and also control land use planning and zoning Because of the perceived weakness of MPOs some in the transportation community have argued that they ought to be given much more power over the planning and programming of projects using federal surface transportation funds Some of these observers go so far as to suggest that federal policies and programs in a number of areas including transportation housing and the environment need to be coordinated on a metropolitan scale and that MPOs are the organizational venue where this should occur Others argue that the relationship between state government local government and MPOs is well balanced The Transportation Planning Process ,2007 Transportation Planning for Access to Jobs Melissa M. Laube,1997 This report presents three case studies of innovative transportation planning efforts in metropolitan areas to improve access to jobs for current welfare recipients and other low income residents These Access to Jobs case studies of the Hartford St Louis and Detroit metropolitan areas focus on developing transportation solutions that meet locally defined goals and objectives and ensure that former welfare recipients have the needed mobility to reach employment opportunities The experiences of each area offer a number of insights into how metropolitan transportation planning process might be applied in developing solutions to employment access problems Topics discussed include local conditions job access problem types and characteristics of existing and planned services impact of proposed solutions organizational roles and responsibilities context of planning effort resource constraints and planning methods
