Mexican Labor World War II:

Mexican Labor and World War II Erasmo Gamboa, Kevin Leonard, 2015-09-01 Although Mexican migrant workers have toiled in the fields of the Pacific Northwest since the turn of the century and although they comprise the largest work force in the region's agriculture today they have been virtually invisible in the region's written labor history Erasmo Gamboa's study of the bracero program during World War II is an important beginning describing and documenting the labor history of Mexican and Chicano workers in Oregon Washington and Idaho and contributing to our knowledge of farm labor Oregon Historical Quarterly

Bracero Railroaders Erasmo Gamboa, 2016-07-01 Desperate for laborers to keep the trains moving during World War II the U S and Mexican governments created a now mostly forgotten bracero railroad program that sent a hundred thousand Mexican workers across the border to build and maintain railroad lines throughout the United States particularly the West Although both governments promised the workers adequate living arrangements and fair working conditions most bracero railroaders lived in squalor worked dangerous jobs and were subject to harsh racial discrimination Making matters worse the governments held a percentage of the workers earnings in a savings and retirement program that supposedly would await the men on their return to Mexico However rampant corruption within both the railroad companies and the Mexican banks meant that most workers were unable to collect what was rightfully theirs Historian Erasmo Gamboa recounts the difficult conditions systemic racism and decades long quest for justice these men faced The result is a pathbreaking examination that deepens our understanding of Mexican American immigration and labor histories in the twentieth century U S West
