Michel Foucault Materialism And Education:

Michel Foucault Mark Olssen, 1999-07-30 Although Foucault departs from Marxism his own approach constitutes a form of consistent materialism which has theoretical implications for the analysis of social and educational discursive systems In seeking to demonstrate a correct reading of Foucault linguistic readings of his work such as those of Christopher Norris 1993 which represent him as part of the linguistic turn in French philosophy where language or representation henceforth defines the limits of thought will be dispelled in the process of being corrected Rather Foucault will be represented as Habermas 1987 has suggested not merely as a historicist but at the same time as a nominalist materialist and empiricist Because the distinctiveness of Foucault's approach can best be seen in contrast to other major philosophical systems and thinkers considerable attention is given to examining Foucault's relationship to Marxism as well as his relations to Kant Gramsci Habermas and the Greeks In relation to education there is in Foucault's approach a double emphasis which constitutes an ordering principle for this work On the one hand attention is directed to discursive practices which perform an educative role in the constitution of subjects and of human forms of existence On the other hand forms of education are constituted and utilized for the purposes of collective ethical self creation a theme Foucault emphasized in his later works The book assesses some of the more interesting recent utilizations of Foucault in educational research Michel Foucault Mark Olssen,

Education, Philosophy and Politics Michael A. Peters, 2013-06-17 In the World Library of Educationalists series international experts themselves compile career long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces extracts from books key articles salient research findings major theoretical and practical contributions so the world can read them in a single manageable volume Michael A Peters has spent the last 30 years researching thinking and writing about some of the key and enduring issues in education He has contributed over 60 books authored co authored and edited and 500 articles to the field In Education Philosophy and Politics Michael A Peters brings together 15 of his key writings in one place including chapters from his best selling books and articles from leading journals Starting with a specially written Introduction which gives an overview of Michael's career and contextualises his selection the essays are then arranged thematically to create a pathway of a way of thinking in philosophy of education which is forward looking but takes account of tradition and the past The subjects of the chapters include Wittgenstein Studies Philosophical Critique of Modernity French Poststructuralism Jean Francois Lyotard Foucault Deleuze Derrida American Pragmatism Rorty Cavell Philosophy and racism Through this book readers can follow the themes and strands that Michael A Peters has written about for over three decades and clearly see his important contribution to the field of education Constructing Foucault's ethics Mark Olssen, 2021-06-15 In popularizing the term speaking truth to power now widely used throughout the world Michel Foucault established the basis upon which a new ethics can be constructed This is the thesis that Mark Olssen advances in Constructing Foucault's ethics Olssen not only speaks truth to existing moral and ethical theories that have dominated western philosophy since Plato but also shows how by using Foucault's insights an alternative ethical and moral theory can be established that both avoids the pitfalls of postmodern relativism and simultaneously grounds ethical moral and political discourse for the present age Taking the late ethical turn in the philosopher's thought as its starting point this ambitious study seeks to construct an ethics beyond anything Foucault ever attempted while remaining consistent with his core postulates In doing so it advances the concept of life continuance which expresses a normative orientation to the future in terms of the quest for survival and well being giving rise to irreducible normative values as part of the discursive order of events This approach is explored in contrast with a range of other established systems from the Kantian to the Marxist to contract ethics and utilitarianism Renewing

Poststructuralism, Philosophy, Pedagogy J.D. Marshall, 2006-01-18 This book has been quite long in the making In its original format but with some different chapters and with the then publisher it foundered as did other volumes in the planned series At the in press stage when we obviously thought it was going ahead it was suddenly canned Quite distraught I closed it away in a desk drawer for a year or so But then Joy Carp of Kluwer Academic Publishers expressed an interest in it and we were in business again Most of the contributors to the original volume have stayed with it only to be delayed by myself for a variety of reasons but see the dedication I had been writing on Michel Foucault for a number of years but had become concerned about mis appropriations of his ideas and works in educational literature I was also concerned about the increasingly intemperate babble in that literature of the notion of postmodernism Indeed at one major educational conference in North America I listened to a person expounding postmodernism in terms of Destroy Destroy Destroy Like Michel Foucault I am not quite sure what postmodernism is but following Mark Poster s account of poststructuralism as merely a collective term to catch a number of French thinkers I thought that what we had to do in education was to look at what particular thinkers had said and not become involved in vapid discussion at an abstract level on isms Thus the book was conceived economic technological and organizational modes International Studies in Philosophy ,2003 Knowledge, Gender, and Schooling D. Mulcahy,2002-06-30 According to Jane Roland Martin philosophical thinking in education for some time has focused on a limited range of questions and endorsed a deficient theory of curriculum Martin has responded by widening the scope of thinking and recognizing the significance of gender and women s experience for education and schooling Her ideas are innovative and forceful and make a strong case for a reassessment of contemporary mainstream educational thought The present book responds to Martin by addressing the issues she raises with particular reference to issues in gender curriculum and schooling in need of urgent attention by theorists and practitioners alike This is accomplished through analysis and response to three areas of Martin s thought 1 her critique of conventional thinking in curriculum in which she challenges traditional assumptions regarding knowledge and the goals of education 2 her gender critique of educational thought and practice in which she examines the extent to which gender bias is reflected in influential educational theories of the past and present that underlie current practice and 3 her alternative vision for schooling founded upon the acceptance of women s experience caring and a widened concept of cultural wealth and its implication for the school curriculum
