From Text to Performance Kelly R Iverson,2015-04-30 For the last two centuries biblical interpretation has been guided by perspectives that have largely ignored the oral context in which the gospels took shape. Only recently have scholars begun to explore how ancient media inform the interpretive process and offer an understanding of the Bible. The contributors to From Text to Performance recognise that the Jesus tradition was a story heard and performed and seek to re-evaluate the constituent elements of narrative including characters, structure, narrator, time and intertextuality within this performative context. In dialogue with traditional literary approaches, these essays demonstrate that an appreciation of performance yields fresh insights distinguishable in many respects from results of literary or narrative readings of the gospels.

Orality and Literacy, 1982. And literacy Literacy for a Changing World Frances Christie, Australian Council for Educational Research, 1990. This book takes a fresh look at the basic idea of literacy and proposes some new definitions to take us into the twenty-first century. It brings together nine Australian scholars of distinction. They argue that schools must teach explicitly the nature of language and that students must be given clear criteria for and support in achieving excellence in controlling the different types of written language used in their various fields of study. Teachers need a clear sense of the changing nature of literacy of the differences between speech and writing and of the characteristic patterns of discourse used in the school subjects they teach. The arguments about literacy are made using examples selected from students' writing and textbooks and demonstrate in a pleasing way the benefit to education of some selected linguistic research. This book is essential reading for educational policy makers and curriculum writers as well as for teachers of all levels and disciplines.

Tense and Aspect in Caesar's Narrative Fredrik Oldsjö, 2001 Useful Fictions Karalee Strieby Harding, 1997 Komparatistische Hefte, 1983 From Homer to Hypertext Hans Balling, Anders Klinkby Madsen, 2002. The articles in this anthology discuss the connection between the rhetorical and narrative manifestations of literature and the media and communicative structures in which they appear. Background literature is described from antique Greece to the present. The conception of literature is here a formal construction rather than an expression of a certain aesthetic perception. The book is structured in three themes: Tradition and Authority about the relations between the author and the tradition in post-modern literature; Narrative Technique about the role of the author and Textuality and Hypertext concentrating on the textuality of literature in modernistic lyrics and the digitalized hypertext.

Oral Tradition, 1993 Keeping the Church in Its Place Richard P. Thompson, 2006-11-15. Thompson's study offers a fresh reading of Acts that keeps the church within its literary place within that narrative. His study uncovers descriptions of the church that emphasize certain characteristics presented in the opening scenes of the narrative: the blessing and presence of God, the unanimity of the believers, the communal caring for one another and the proclamation of the gospel. The progression of the Acts narrative presents an evolving image of the church that eventually includes both Jewish and non-Jewish believers of the gospel with growing opposition from the Jewish people and even from the Jewish believers in Jerusalem. This dynamic portrait of the church in the book of Acts contrasts three different views concerning the people of God the Jewish people as the historical people of God Jewish believers as represented by the Jerusalem church and the church that includes both Jews and Gentiles By offering such a dynamic narrative of these various groups of believers Acts encourages readers to define and identify the church or Christian community as the people who belong to God rather than those whose identity as God's people is based on historical or religious categories
