International Investment Dispute Awards Esra Yıldız Üstün, 2022-04-19 This book examines how international investment arbitral awards can be facilitated It sets out to achieve a fuller conceptualisation and theorisation of awards through a discussion of relevant issues and themes as well as demonstrating how they can be achieved through a comparative approach that has been conceived and developed with reference to existing deficiencies in the research literature This contribution is particularly important given the worldwide emergence of investment arbitration as a powerful form of alternative dispute resolution ADR The book ultimately seeks to explore and develop solutions that can be directed to an existing oversight and deficit within the international investment architecture In considering the advantages and disadvantages of each solution it will work towards an approach best suited to upholding the interest of the victorious party at the enforcement stage The enforcement of arbitral awards on a voluntary basis has proven to be insufficient and this created a real and ongoing shortcoming that needs to be addressed International Investment Dispute Awards Facilitating Enforcement therefore seeks to directly influence existing practice on the part of international institutions with the intention of helping to develop a more effective resolution The readerships for this book will include arbitration practitioners policy makers including treaty drafters academics and postgraduate students interested in the enforcement of investment arbitral awards

The Award in International Investment Arbitration Katia Fach Gómez,Catharine Titi,2024-08-28 The Award in International Investment Arbitration is a comprehensive study of the international investment award which serves as a unique reference work and an authoritative one stop resource on the topic for both practitioners and academics The book reviews the award in a holistic manner from award drafting to the procedural principles that govern it from arbitral deliberations and tribunal dynamics to post award challenges from the role of gender in decision making to the impact of tribunal secretaries It puts emphasis on the practitioners needs with a careful selection of hands on topics such as fact finding in complex disputes the role of experts and legal reasoning and persuasion Sensitive to contemporary challenges the book addresses both existing questions that have evolved over time and novel topics that have not yet received sufficient attention such as the impact of technology on award drafting By bringing together the biggest names in the contemporary investment arbitration scene a unique line up of highly qualified arbitrators and experts from academia and international legal practice The Award in International Investment Arbitration offers a singular reservoir of knowledge and experience on the topic drawn from a diverse set of angles and perspectives

Decentralization and Governance in Indonesia Ronald L. Holzhacker,Rafael Wittek,Johan Woltjer,2015-09-11 Indonesia over the past two decades has embarked on a process of decentralization as part of a broader process of democratization which followed earlier periods of centralized governance and authoritarian rule across the archipelago The purpose of this book is to begin to explore the connections between governance and sustainable society in a wide variety of policy fields in Indonesia and how reforming governance structures may contribute to societal benefits and the creation of a long term sustainable society This book bridges important theoretical debates related to governance and sustainable society and provides empirical research from Indonesia in important policy areas related to this debate By placing research in different policy areas in a single volume the link to the broader concepts of governance decentralization and societal outcomes is strengthened The book builds on the recent interest that has focused on Indonesia and the continued development of democracy in the country The chapters in the book show a rich variety of decentralized governance arrangements and capacity building at the local level in particular Central standards for example for social sustainability anti corruption arrangements or for dealing with direct foreign investment combined with local innovation for example for municipal coordination of primary health care or metropolitan transport are key to Indonesia as a country in a continuing process of transformation We identify three key trends in the on going process of decentralization and governance in Indonesia First we find that formal governance the relation between the national and local government is characterized by a system of variable geometry multi level governance depending on the policy area The challenge ahead is strengthening accountability mechanisms to assure national standards while preserving and encouraging local innovation Secondly informal governance mechanisms are evolving to move from hierarchical to network forms of governance Here the challenge is to insure democratic input by citizens and civil society organizations Finally we identify a trend toward shared value creation and sustainable cooperation Indonesia is beginning to move from a rather singular policy focus on economic growth to a more complex and developing notion of policymaking for inclusive growth and the creation of a sustainable society for present and future generations. Here the challenge is sound implementation and to increase the effectiveness of governance mechanisms. There is also a noted diffusion of goals to focus beyond the Jakarta metropolitan area to smaller regional cities as urbanization continues and rural areas are changing. This book will be of interest for use in advanced undergraduate and graduate courses related to Southeast Asia in the fields of international relations, political science, public administration, economics, law, sociology, education, public health, and the spatial sciences. It will also be of interest to policymakers and government officials at the national and local level in Southeast Asia and middle income developing countries, officials and policymakers in institutions of regional governance such as the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) and of global governance such as the United Nations and World Bank. It will also be of interest to civil society organizations and other actors focused on policy development and economic development, health, education, the environment, sustainable transport, etc. The book will also be of interest to business people interested in economic and governance issues such as the management and governance of inbound foreign investment, inclusive growth, and corporate governance. Finally, the book should be of interest to citizens in advanced, middle income and developing countries motivated to learn more about the links between governance and the creation of a sustainable society for current and future generations.
