

The background of the cover is a photograph of a serene Scottish landscape. In the foreground, a dark, silhouetted shoreline with a few trees frames the bottom and right sides. A calm lake reflects the sky and the distant mountains. The mountains are hazy and blue-toned, suggesting a distance or atmospheric perspective. The sky is a clear, pale blue. The title is centered in the upper half of the image.

Warren, 2002 This book is illustrated with photographs and maps and diagrams It is designed for those studying Scotland's environment at undergraduate and graduate level and for those engaged in farming forestry conservation game sports and employment Managing Scotland's Environment Charles Warren, 2009-07-15 Scotland's natural environment is its most treasured asset and the subject of its most vociferous debates In this book Charles Warren tackles the hottest current debates land reform the future of farming public access conservation of moorland and birds of prey the place of forestry and the control of alien species and red deer and takes up the challenge of integrating conservation with social and economic objectives The second edition includes a new chapter on energy and the environment taking in the highest profile environmental issue in Scotland at present the windfarm controversy and debates about the appropriate energy mix for the future In addition the book has been updated throughout to take account of recent changes in environmental and related social and political issues Managing Scotland's Environment Jayne Glass, Charles Warren, 2024-02-06 Written in the light of international thinking on environment management this third edition tackles the hottest debates of recent years deer management the post Brexit future of farming land reform rewilding v re-peopling windfarms and conflicts between game sport and conservation Underlying all the practical and policy choices are intriguing ethical and philosophical considerations which the book addresses head on including debates about the goals of conservation in a pervasively humanised world This is an ideal text for those studying Scotland's environment at an undergraduate and graduate level as well as for those already involved in or interested in managing land and nature in Scotland Throughout it is well illustrated with photographs and specially prepared maps and diagrams Troublemakers: The Struggle for Environmental Justice in Scotland Kevin

Dunion, 2019-07-29 No detailed description available for Troublemakers Planning Law Essentials Anne-Michelle Slater, 2014-03-17 Much of the new Scottish planning system legislated by the Planning etc Scotland act 2006 and various secondary legislations has now been implemented with a commitment to further reforms Planning Law Essentials explains the current state of planning law in Scotland as a whole with a focus on the recent reforms From national to local planning policy and from applications to appeals it is an excellent resource for Scots law students planners surveyors land managers environmental NGOs and community groups End of chapter summaries highlight the essential facts while the essential cases summaries show how the planning law has been enacted in practice Restoring Layered Landscapes Marion Hourdequin, David G. Havlick, 2016 Restoring Layered Landscapes brings together historians geographers philosophers and interdisciplinary scholars to explore ecological restoration in landscapes with complex histories shaped by ongoing interactions between humans and nature For many decades ecological restoration particularly in the United States focused on returning degraded sites to conditions that prevailed prior to human influence This model has been broadened in recent decades and restoration now increasingly focuses on the recovery of ecological functions and processes rather than on returning a site to a specific historical state Nevertheless neither the theory nor the practice of restoration has fully come to terms with the challenges of restoring layered landscapes where nature and culture shape one another in deep and ongoing relationships Former military and industrial sites provide paradigmatic examples of layered landscapes Many of these sites are not only characterized by natural ecosystems worth preserving and restoring but also embody significant political social and cultural histories This volume grapples with the challenges of restoring and interpreting such complex sites What should we aim to restore in such places How can restoration adequately take the legacies of human use into account Should traces of the past be left on the landscape and how can interpretive strategies be creatively employed to make visible the complex legacies of an open pit mine or chemical weapons manufacturing plant Restoration aims to create new value but not always without loss Restoration often disrupts existing ecosystems infrastructure and artifacts The chapters in this volume consider what restoration can tell us more generally about the relationship between continuity and change and how the past can and should inform our thinking about the future These insights in turn will help foster a more thoughtful approach to human environment relations in an era of unprecedented anthropogenic global environmental change

Botanical Journal of Scotland, 2004 Lairds, Land and Sustainability Jayne Glass, 2013-07-22 Scotland is at the heart of modern sustainable upland management Large estates cover vast areas of the uplands with a long complex and emotive history of ownership and use In recent decades the Scottish uplands have increasingly been the arena for passionate debates over large scale land management issues Crucially what kinds of ownership and management will best deliver sustainable futures for upland environments and communities Although the globally unique dominance of private ownership remains a distinctive characteristic of Scotland's uplands increasing numbers of estates are now owned by environmental NGOs and local communities especially since the Land Reform Scotland Act of 2003 A decade after the passage of this landmark Act this book synthesises research carried out on a diverse range of upland estates by the Centre for Mountain Studies at Perth College University of the Highlands and Islands The findings from privately owned estates as well as those owned by communities charities and conservation groups will prove enlightening and relevant to upland managers policy makers and researchers across Britain and Europe With the Scottish Government promoting a vision of environmental sustainability and with the new diversity of ownerships and management now appearing this timely and topical book investigates the implications of these different types of land ownership for sustainable upland management

ECOS, 2005 Modern Views - Ancient Lands Emma Carver, Olivia Lelong, 2004 This volume originated at a conference held in Glasgow in 2001 and organised by Scottish Archaeological Forum which reflected the complexity of landscape archaeology in the light of new techniques and methodology Scotland's Environment George Holmes, Roger Crofts, 2000 Scotland's countryside is one of her most precious assets and today there is more widespread public awareness and concern about its quality and its future management than ever before Here a group of distinguished speakers look back at changes in the environment and land use over the centuries before looking in the crystal ball to try and forecast where current events and trends are taking us Their main purpose was to examine and consider what actions might be taken to ameliorate unwelcome trends and promote beneficial ones The end product is an Agenda for Action recommending the kinds of policies and practices that would be likely to enhance the environmental qualities most valued by society This book summarises that Agenda and the reasoning underlying it The Town Planning Review Patrick Abercrombie, 2004 2010 Redaktion Osnabrück, 2011-06-16 The Environment Acts 1990-1995 Great Britain, Stephen Tromans, 1996 This handbook offers the full text of the Environmental Protection Act 1990 as amended plus selected parts of the new Environment Act 1995 Both include up to date section by section analytical commentary provided by an expert in the field The Glasgow Naturalist, 2002 Includes the Transactions and proceedings of the Society 1909 55 called third series 1909 30 Scottish Life and Society: The Individual and Community Life, 2000 Quarterly Journal of Forestry, 2003 Vol 1 includes the Transactions of the Irish Forestry Society Official Meeting Program Ecological Society of America.
