South Asian Novelists in English Jaina C. Sanga, 2003-03-30. With the publication of Salman Rushdie's Booker Prize winning novel Midnight's Children in 1981 followed by the unprecedented popularity of his subsequent works, the cinematic adaptation of Michael Ondaatje's The English Patient and many other best sellers written by South Asian novelists writing in English have gained a tremendous following. This reference is a guide to their lives and writings. The volume focuses on novelists born in South Asia who have written and continue to write about issues concerning that region. Some of the novelists have published widely while others are only beginning their literary careers. The volume includes alphabetically arranged entries on more than 50 South Asian novelists. Each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes a biography, a discussion of major works and themes, a summary of the novelist's critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies. Since many of the contributors are personally acquainted with the novelists, they are able to offer significant insights. The volume closes with a selected bibliography of studies of the South Asian novel in English along with a list of anthologies and periodicals.

While it behoves well to celebrate its success and revel in its glory, we should also stop to enquire into its strengths and weaknesses, its achievements and failures, and its present status and future prospects. Standing as we do on the threshold of the twenty-first century, the underlying purpose of Indian Fiction in English therefore is to attempt a fairly comprehensive turn-of-the-century stocktaking of Indian fiction in English. The anthology puts together incisive and highly rated articles on almost all the important Indian novelists in English, starting
