Education in the Arab Gulf States and the Arab World Nagat El-Sanabary,1992 This annotated guide of English language material on education in the Arab world includes books journal articles national and international reports and documents and Ph D dissertations The author opens with an introductory essay on the development of education in the Arab Gulf states and an analysis of current issues in educational research Chapters cover the social context of education educational systems and structures country reports on educational developments between 1950 and 1980 religion and education education at the pre college level and higher education with special attention to systems and institutions curriculum and evaluation management students in national and foreign universities research sciences and technology The book also examines women s education teachers and teacher education educational planning manpower and education educational guidance and counseling special education literacy and adult education and educational media and instructional technology Author and subject indexes are provided    The Economic Development of the Yemen Arab Republic (RLE Economy of Middle East) Ragaei el Mallakh,2014-10-30 The recent economic development of the Yemen Arab Republic is in stark contrast to the centuries of isolation that had marked the country prior to the 1962 Revolution When economic planning was instituted in the 1970s the nation was confronted by the needs of reconstruction after years of conflict and of development A formidable task was faced in the need to establish basic infrastructure throughout a country with a widely dispersed population and with extremely rugged terrain In addition the economy has been characterized by the high percentage of the workforce attracted overseas as migrant workers This book provides the first comprehensive study of the economic development of this under studied nation First published in 1986    The Transformation of the Gulf David Held,Kristian Ulrichsen,2013-03-01 This book examines the political economic and social transformation of the six member states of the Gulf Cooperation Council GCC and the ways in which these states are both shaping and being reshaped by the processes of globalisation Adopting a multidisciplinary approach the volume combines thematic chapters focusing on issues such as globalisation nationalism and identity political thinking and economic diversification and redistributive policymaking with empirical chapters studying specific aspects of reform and change the emergence of governing markets the rise of Sovereign Wealth Funds Islamic Finance the relationship between energy and sustainability trends in foreign aid donorship strategic and foreign policy formulation Contributions from experts in the field provide cutting edge snapshots of a region in flux and collectively offer a roadmap of its repositioning in the global order examining the interaction between global processes and internal dynamics of change and resistance that inject new dimensions into debates over the loci of local and global transformations and the manner in which each plays off the other Situating the Gulf States firmly within their global twenty first century context this book will hold particular appeal to theorists of globalisation as well as to scholars of comparative politics international political economy and area studies Oil Exporters' Economic Development in an Interdependent World Jahangir Amuzegar,1983-04-06 Not unpredictably there is a complex energy bind as we approach the end of the twentieth century The oil importing industrial countries have anchored their industries their means of transportation their home comfort in short their whole energy dependent lifestyle largely to hydrocarbon fuels

Manpower Planning and Development : The Developing World John J. Connor,William M. Carson,1982 Textbook on enterprise level human resources planning human resources management and personnel management development in developing countries discusses business organization design job descriptions occupational qualifications job analysis vocational training incl Succession planning recruitment performance appraisal etc References Manpower Planning Israrul Haque,1987 A Health Manpower Planning Model for Oil-Rich Developing Nations Basu Ghosh,2013 Health manpower planning is a key component of health sector planning It is crucially important for countries with scarce indigenous human resources such as the oil rich developing countries in the middle east Most of these countries have adopted a policy of indigenisation Health manpower planning models have evolved over the years and the concepts and principles of these are generally applicable to any country However in view of the special characteristics and features of the oil rich middle east countries it is necessary to adapt and evolve a model with increased applicability to such settings This paper presents an integrated computer based model already successfully implemented in an oil rich country which enables simulation of alternative human resources and health system infrastructural strategies Report ,1948 Human Resources Development and Manpower Planning in Nigeria Augustus N. Gbosi,2007 International Labour Documentation International Labour Office. Central Library and Documentation Branch,International Labour Organization. Central Library and Documentation Branch,1983 Human Resource Planning Rashid Amjad,1987 Studies undertaken by ARTEP and discussed at a workshop convened in Bangkok 16 18 December 1986 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1982 Economic Interdependence Between Oil Producing and Labor Exporting Countries Khalid Alkhathlan,2008 Oil and workers remittances play an important role in the international economy Only a few articles have been trying to investigate the effects of oil price fluctuations on both oil producing and labor exporting countries For oil producing countries the concentration in production might be the main reason for the fluctuation in export earnings that lead to large changes in export revenues Because of the lack of skilled labor in oil producing countries they are heavily dependant on the skilled workers from labor exporting countries such as Pakistan India Bangladesh Egypt the Philippines and other countries So any oil shock is expected to harm labor exporting countries by influencing the workers remittances This book is expected to enrich the international library with the importance of workers remittances to labor exporting countries I hope that this book will help the international community to realize how negatively the oil price fluctuations would influence poor countries labor exporting countries through affecting workers remittances which are important to macroeconomic variables such as investment consumption and thus gross domestic product GDP Bibliographie der Wirtschaftswissenschaften ,1982
