Policy Diffusion and Telecommunications Regulation Véronique Wavre, 2018-01-22 This study investigates regulatory reforms in the telecommunications sector of Middle Eastern and North African MENA countries It explores telecommunications innovations in three developing economies Morocco Jordan and Egypt with a focus on regional and European trends in telecommunications policies Common knowledge suggests that the European Union and its member states are the main influential regulatory power in the MENA region However the empirical analysis of selected telecommunications regulations universal service obligation USO and spectrum management reveals that reforms are not always determined by European countries but may also originate from other developing countries such as Peru and Chile This finding attests to the rise of regulatory influence from the Global South which challenges traditional transfers of regulations originating from more industrially advanced countries The Middle East William B.
