Migration And Identity:

Migration and Identity Andor Skotnes, 2017-07-12 The theme of Migration and Identity is of special concern at a time both of massive worldwide migration and of apparently intensifying national ethnic and racial conflicts Problems of migration and the resulting reconfigurations of social identity are fundamental issues for the twenty first century This volume spans the whole complex global web of migratory patterns with contributions linking Africa Asia Australia Europe North and South America without losing the particularities of local and personal experience This paperback edition in the Memory and Narrative series explores these issues and the sustaining or abandoning of memory and identity as people move between fundamentally different cultures in a number of recent social settings from a number of methodological perspectives These focused case studies offer glimpses into the interior migration experiences into the processes of constructing and reconstructing identity without forgetting that both theoretically and empirically the problem of identity is complex and multifaceted All of the essays rely heavily on oral history and personal testimony highlighting the experience of individuals and small groups without ignoring the tension that exists between the local and the global Memories of oppression or totalitarianism are one of the driving forces behind some of these migrations and the transmission of memories and myths between family generations is one of the ways in which migrations are interpreted In looking both backward and forward Migration and Identity offers an acute view of migratory patterns and their impact on the newcomers and the local cultures It will be of interest to cultural and oral historians and researchers of concerned with migration and integration

Migration and Identity Rina Benmayor, Andor Skotnes, 1994 The theme of Migration and Identity is of special concern at a time both of massive worldwide migration and of apparently intensifying national ethnic and racial conflicts Problems of migration and the resulting reconfigurations of social identity are fundamental issues for the twenty first century This volume spans the whole complex global web of migratory patterns with contributions linking Africa Asia Australia Europe North and South America without losing the particularities of local and personal experience This paperback edition in the Memory and Narrative series explores these issues and the sustaining or abandoning of memory and identity as people move between fundamentally different cultures in a number of recent social settings from a number of methodological perspectives These focused case studies offer glimpses into the interior migration experiences into the processes of constructing and reconstructing identity without forgetting that both theoretically and empirically the problem of identity is complex and multifaceted All of the essays rely heavily on oral history and personal testimony highlighting the experience of individuals and small groups without ignoring the tension that exists between the local and the global Memories of oppression or totalitarianism are one of the driving forces behind some of these migrations and the transmission of memories and myths between family generations is one of the ways in which migrations are interpreted In looking both backward and forward Migration and Identity offers an acute view of migratory patterns and their impact on the newcomers and the local cultures It will be of interest to cultural and oral historians and researchers of concerned with migration and integration Rina Benmayor is professor of oral history Latino studies and literature in the Department of New Humanities for Social Justice at California State University Monterey Bay She is currently president of the International Oral History Association Her recent publications include Telling to Live Latino Feminist Testimonies and Latino Cultural Citizenship Andor Skotnes is associate professor of history of the Americas at The Sage Colleges in Troy New York He teaches courses in working class African American Native American and Latin American history and culture and in oral history Mapping Migration, Identity, and Space Tabea Linhard, Timothy H. Parsons, 2018-07-14 This interdisciplinary collection of essays focuses on the ways in which movements of people across natural political and cultural boundaries shape identities that are inexorably linked to the geographical space that individuals on the move cross inhabit and leave behind As conflicts over identities and space continue to erupt on a regular basis this book reads the relationship between migration identity and space from a fresh and innovative perspective Europe, Migration and Identity Jan Logemann, Donna Gabaccia, Sally Gregory Kohlstedt, 2015-10-14 This volume explores connections between migration studies and research in the history of Europeanization and Europeaness areas which have generated much interest in recent years Beyond histories of European political integration and the intellectual and elite movements that have supported this process scholars increasingly pay attention to the constructed nature of Europeaness and European identities and to the multiplicity of ways in which this construction happens Migrants can be a particularly useful lens on Europeanization processes as they provide a perspective from the periphery in two ways by providing a view literally from the outside as in the case of those who left the continent or by providing a view from the margins of the European societies within which they live The collection asks what Europe meant to migrants abroad particularly within the transatlantic context and within the continent during the twentieth century Contributions from a variety of disciplinary perspectives reflect both on the broader historical context and theoretical implications and highlight specific cases such as those of European labor migrants to the United States of transatlantic exiles and migrants of Latin American immigrants in present day Europe as well as the experience of highly skilled migrants within the context of the European Union Can we trace the emergence of European identities among different groups of migrants and if so what forms did they take This book was originally published as a special issue of National Identities Identity and Migration in Europe: Multidisciplinary Perspectives Maria Caterina La Barbera, 2014-11-24 This book addresses the impact of migration on the formation and transformation of identity and its continuous negotiations Its ground is the understanding of identity as a complex social phenomenon resulting from constant negotiations between personal conditions social relationships and institutional frameworks Migrations understood as dynamic processes that do not end when landing in the host country offer the best conditions to analyze the construction and transformation of social identities in the postcolonial and globalized societies Searching for novel epistemologies and methodologies the research questions here addressed are how identity is negotiated in migration processes and how these negotiations work in contemporary multiethnic Europe This edited volume brings to the field a novel convergence of theoretical and empirical approaches by gathering together scholars from different countries of Europe and the Mediterranean area from different disciplines and backgrounds challenging the traditional discipline division Identity, Belonging and Migration Gerard Delanty, Ruth Wodak, Paul Jones, 2008-02-01 This volume addresses the question of migration in Europe It is concerned with the extent to which racism and anti immigration discourse has been to some extent normalised and democratised in European and national political discourses Mainstream political parties are espousing increasingly coercive policies and frequently attempting to legitimate such approaches via nationalist populist slogans and coded forms of racism Identity Belonging and Migration shows that that liberalism is not enough to oppose the disparate and diffuse xenophobia and racism faced by many migrants today and calls for new conceptions of anti racism within and beyond the state The book is divided into three parts and organised around a theoretical framework for understanding migration belonging and exclusion which is subsequently developed through discussions of state and structural discrimination as well as a series of thematic case studies In drawing on a range of rich and original data this timely volume makes an important contribution to discussions on migration in Europe

Migration, Identity, and Belonging Margaret Franz, Kumarini Silva, 2020-02-17 This volume responds to the question How do you know when you belong to a country In other words when is the nation state a homeland The boundaries and borders defining who belongs and who does not proliferate in the age of globalization although they may not coincide with national jurisdictions Contributors to this collection engage with how these boundaries are made and sustained examining how belonging is mediated by material relations of power capital and circuits of communication technology on the one side and representations of identity nation and homeland on the other The authors diverse methodologies ranging from archival research oral histories literary criticism and ethnography attend to these contradictions by studying how the practices of migration and identification procured and produced through global exchanges of bodies and goods that cross borders foreclose those borders to re produce and re imagine the homeland and its boundaries

Return Migration and Identity Nan M. Sussman, 2010-11-01 The global trend for immigrants to return home has unique relevance for Hong Kong This work of cross cultural psychology explores many personal stories of return migration The author captures in dozens of interviews the anxieties anticipations hardships and flexible world perspectives of migrants and their families as well as friends and co workers The book examines cultural identity shifts and population flows during a critical juncture in Hong Kong history between the Sino British Joint Declaration in 1984 and the early years of Hong Kong s new status as a special administrative region after 1997 Nearly a million residents of Hong Kong migrated to North America Europe and Australia in the 1990s These interviews and analyses help illustrate individual choices and identity profiles during this period of unusual cultural flexibility and behavioral adjustment Nan M Sussman is an associate professor and chair of psychology at the College of Staten Island City University of New York Sussman effectively weaves together themes about migration and remigration from such diverse sources as arts and literature history sociology and her own discipline of psychology This book will make an excellent contribution to research on acculturation cross cultural transition and adaptation identity and migration Colleen Ward Victoria University of Wellington Language, Identity and Migration Vera Regan, Chloé Diskin, Jennifer

Martyn, 2015-11-18 This volume presents a collection of the latest scholarly research on language migration and identity It includes research conducted within both established and emerging methodological frameworks and explores a wide range of contexts and geographical locations from the language classroom to the migrant experience and from Ireland to Eritrea

Membership, Migration, and Identity, 1997 Transnational Migration and the Politics of Identity Meenakshi Thapan, 2005 Focusing on Asian women's experience of immigration the contributions in this book collectively highlight the gendered dimension of migration the different experiences of men to women and the subsequent consequences for women within the constraints of the root culture and the strategies deployed to make life more bearable in the host country The central theme discussed is the fact that immigrant women are unable to completely break away from the chains of traditional patriarchal norms imposed by either their host country or root culture Immigrant women's identity is therefore far more fluid and regulated by both social and state institutions they encounter Migration, Diaspora and Identity Georgina

Tsolidis, 2013-10-07 Framed in relation to diaspora this collection engages with the subject of how cultural difference is lived and how complex and shifting identities shape and respond to spatial politics of belonging Diaspora is understood in a variety of ways which makes this an eclectic collection of papers Authors use various theoretical frameworks to explore diverse groups of people with a variety of experiences in a wide range of settings They are making sense of the experiences of women and men from a range of ethnic backgrounds negotiating identities through family work and education The micro dynamics of the everyday offer an evocative bottom up means of understanding the tensions implicit in living multiple belongings The common thread for the collection comes from the glimpses these authors provide into the remaking of our globalized world The aim is to shed light on racism dislocation and alienation on the one hand and on the other hand to consider how the complex power relations within the everyday mediate a sense of resistance and hope The papers are arranged around four themes 1 Multiple Belongings 2 Representing a Way of Being 3 Sexualised Identifications and 4 Marriage and Family Rethinking National Identity in the Age of Migration Migration Policy Institute, Bertelsmann Stiftung, 2012-11-30 Greater mobility and migration have brought about unprecedented levels of diversity that are transforming communities across the Atlantic in fundamental ways sparking uncertainty over who we are in a society As publics fear loss of their national identity and values the need is greater than ever to reinforce the bonds that tie communities together Yet while a consensus may be emerging as to what has not worked well little thought has been given to developing a new organizing principle for community cohesion Such a vision needs to smooth divisions between immigration

s winners and losers blunt extremism and respond smartly to changing community and national identities This volume will examine the lessons that can be drawn from various approaches to immigrant integration and managing diversity in North America and Europe The book delivers recommendations on what policymakers must do to build and reinforce inclusiveness given the realities on each side of the Atlantic It offers insights into the next generation of policies that can re build inclusive societies and bring immigrants and natives together in pursuit of shared futures

Museums, Migration and Identity in Europe Christopher Whitehead, Susannah Eckersley, Katherine Lloyd, Rhiannon Mason, 2016-03-09 The imperatives surrounding museum representations of place have shifted from the late eighteenth century to today The political significance of place itself has changed and continues to change at all scales from local civic regional to national and supranational At the same time changes in population flows migration patterns and demographic movement now underscore both cultural and political practice be it in the accommodation of diversity in cultural and social policy scholarly explorations of hybridity or in state immigration controls This book investigates the historical and contemporary relationships between museums places and identities It brings together contributions from international scholars academics practitioners from museums and public institutions policymakers and representatives of associations and migrant communities to explore all these issues

Identity in Narrative Anna De Fina, 2003-01-01 This volume presents both an analysis of how identities are built represented and negotiated in narrative as well as a theoretical reflection on the links between narrative discourse and identity construction The data for the book are Mexican immigrants personal experience narratives and chronicles of their border crossings into the United States Embracing a view of identity as a construct firmly grounded in discourse and interaction the author examines and illustrates the multiple threads that connect the local expression and negotiation of identity to the wider social contexts that frame the experience of migration from material conditions of life in the United States to mainstream discourses about race and color The analysis reveals how identities emerge in discourse through the interplay of different levels of expression from implicit adherence to narrative styles and ways of telling to explicit negotiation of membership categories      Stories of Identity Facing History and Ourselves, 2008 Stories of Identity reflects on the way that migration affects personal identity and offers educators and students resources to examine this migration through methods of storytelling. It shares the experiences of immigrants in America and Europe from the individual to the collective through memoirs, journalistic accounts, and interviews. The book uses stories about family and upbringing, faith and doubt, religion, school, and community history, and scholarship interviews with young people and meditations from novelists and authors including author Jhumpa Lahiri, The Namesake, Ed Husain, The Islamist, Eboo Patel, Founder of the Interfaith Youth Core, and many more. These experiences reflect a recent and global phenomenon where identity and citizenship are challenged by the greater blurring of national boundaries. Exploring the stories of young migrants and their changing communities, Stories asks readers to reflect on the fluidity of identity.      Migration, Identity and Politics in Turkey from the Ottoman Empire to Today Pinar Çağlayan, Gökçe Bayındır, Goularas, Isil Zeynep Turkan, Ipek, Edanur Önel, 2024-04-30 International migration, the flow of people across international boundaries, has been studied from several perspectives, especially since the Syrian civil war in 2011. Migration, Identity and Politics in Turkey from the Ottoman Empire to Today aims to explore the motivation of migration, the social integration or disintegration, the migration process to the host country, and the development and creation of new migrant identities. A lot of studies deal with the subject of international migration, especially regarding the civil rights of migrants, economic impacts of migration, or international policies related to migration, but a micro-based analysis on migrants' culture, political, social identities, and attitudes, generational transformation, moral, and mental, stated historical approach is limited. In this regard, the book differs from other works in that it includes comprehensive and historical analyses of internal and external migration since the Ottoman Empire rather than just focusing on current international migration to Turkey as well as an identity-based and cultural perspective that goes beyond the social, economic, and political perspective.      Boundaries within: Nation, Kinship and Identity among Migrants and Minorities Francesca Decimo, Alessandra Gribaldo, 2017-04-20 This volume investigates the relationship between migration, identity, kinship, and population. It uncovers the institutional practices of categorization as well as the conducts and the ethics adopted by social actors that create divisions between citizens and non-citizens, migrants and their descendants inside national borders. The essays provide multiple empirical analyses that capture the range of politics, debates, regulations, and documents through which the US–them distinction comes to be constructed and reconstructed. At the same time, the authors reveal how this distinction is experienced, reinterpreted, and reproduced by those directly affected by governmental actions. This perspective grants equal attention to both the logics of national governmentality and the myriad ways that individuals and collectivities entangle with categories of identity. Featuring case studies from countries as varied as the Netherlands, French Guiana, South Tyrol, Eritrea, and Ethiopia, New York City, Italy, and Liangshan, China, this book offers unique insights into the production of identity boundaries in the contested terrain of migration and minorities. It outlines how the process of producing national identity is enacted not only through impositions from above but also when individuals themselves embody and deploy identities and kinship bonds More so than lines of division boundaries within are understood as an ongoing process of identity construction and social exclusion taking place among the various actors levels and spaces that make up the national fabric     National Identity in an Age of Migration Peter Kivisto, 2018-04-19 This collection explores from a variety of angles the beliefs of citizens and noncitizens about the impact that contemporary migration to the USA is having on American culture and on national solidarity As in other liberal democracies that have experienced mass migration during the past several decades there is considerable fear and anxiety in the USA about what newcomers are doing to the nation economically politically and especially culturally At the symbolic level Americans largely embrace the idea that theirs is a nation composed of people from many different origins but recent arrivals put to the test the extent to which the nation is actually prepared to embrace diversity The six empirical studies in this volume are divided between those examining how citizens respond to immigrants including right wing populists pragmatic multiculturalists and immigrant advocates and how immigrants in turn attempt to integrate into the receiving society This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Intercultural Studies
