

PARENTING TIPS

For Elementary Parents

Being a good parent doesn't involve doing extraordinary things. It's the little things you do every day that are what's most important. Use these tips to help your child thrive and grow!

Spend time together. Regularly spend one-on-one time with your child doing something you both enjoy.

Make education a top priority. Show consistent interest in your child's academic progress and in what your child is learning.

Monitor technology use. Know the technology your child uses, and be aware of where your child goes online. Provide guidelines and set limits.

Encourage a healthy lifestyle. Have nutritious food at home and make sure your child gets plenty of sleep and exercise.

Parenting The Elementary Child:

The Family Context of Parenting in Children's Adaptation to Elementary School Philip A. Cowan, Carolyn Pape Cowan, Jennifer C. Ablow, Vanessa Kahn Johnson, Jeffrey R. Measelle, 2005-05-06 The Family Context of Parenting in Children's Adaptation to Elementary School is a result of a longitudinal prevention study of 100 families begun the year before their first children entered kindergarten Each family went through an assessment and then a subset was randomly chosen for group intervention The children in both groups were then studied as they progressed through kindergarten and first grade to assess the quality of their adaptation to the school environment The text focuses on how parent child relationships are only one determinant of a child's academic competence social competence and behavior Rather these relationships must be understood in the context of the role they play within the family as a system It also addresses the recent challenges to claims about the impact of parents on their children's development The book sheds additional light on family influences within the larger social environment as a key determinant of the quality of children's adjustment to schooling It appeals to scientists professionals and parents alike
