

Positive Parenting

ZERO TO THREE
Early connections last a lifetime.

Positive parenting describes a set of parental behaviors that foster a child's capacity to love, trust, explore and learn. The goal of positive parenting is to help parents guide their children's healthy development in the context of the family's culture. Key elements of positive parenting include the ability to:

Understand or imagine the child's point of view, especially during challenging moments.

Respond with interest and sensitivity to the child's cues.

Recognize that parenting can be stressful and missteps are a natural part of child-rearing.

Recognize and celebrate the child's strengths, abilities, and capacity to learn and develop.

Provide consistent, age-appropriate guidelines and limits for child behavior.

Work toward a balance of meeting parental needs and child needs.

Delight in moments of connection with the child;

Recognize and regulate their own feelings and behaviors before they respond to the child.

Seek help, support or additional information on parenting when needed.

Waddell, Rachel M.

McBride, 2008 Early Childhood Education spans the human life from birth to age 8 Infants and toddlers experience life more holistically than any other age group Social emotional cognitive language and physical lessons are not learned separately by very young children Adults who are most helpful to young children interact in ways that understand that the child is learning from the whole experience not just that part of the experience to which the adult gives attention Although early childhood education does not have to occur in the absence of the parent or primary caregiver this term is sometimes used to denote education by someone other than these the parent or primary caregiver Both research in the field and early childhood educators view the parents as an integral part of the early childhood education process Early childhood education takes many forms depending on the theoretical and educational beliefs of the educator or parent Other terms those are often used interchangeably with early childhood education are early childhood learning early care and early education Much of the first two years of life are spent in the creation of a child's first sense of self or the building of a first identity Because this is a crucial part of children's makeup how they first see themselves how they think they should function how they expect others to function in relation to them early care must ensure that in addition to carefully selected and trained caregivers links with family home culture and home language are a central part of program policy If care becomes a substitute for rather than a support of family children may develop a less than positive sense of who they are and where they come from because of their child care experience This book presents the latest research in this vital field
