Hobart A. Burch, 1997 Handbook of Parenting Masud S. Hogg, Nicholas Long, Nicholas James Long, 2004-03-08 A single volume textualization of the growing level of interest in research educational and professional activity within the broadly defined field of parenting Context and Development Robert Cohen, Alexander W. Siegel, 2014-02-04 The purpose of this book is to explore meaningful integrations of developmental processes and functioning with conceptualizations of context a term traditionally denoting physical settings social arenas or perceptual or social backdrops in relation to a focal point However the study of context has taken a considerably more unique and vibrant form in recent years the term is becoming more than a substitute for background independent variables Rather the contributions of context to behavior thought feelings and vice versa are becoming central issues in many research domains This text is a collection of empirical and theoretical accounts for understanding context its focus is on integrating the study of context with the science of developmental psychology Although the authors work in many different areas of the field and with different populations they all converge on a central methodological conceptual theme of contextualism which is presented as the dynamic integration of intraindividual factors with environmental and social environmental factors

Career Development in Childhood and Adolescence, 2007-01-01 In the past few years many career theorists have noted the dearth of literature in the area of career development in childhood and adolescence A growing need for integrating theory and research on the early stages of vocational development within a systemic life span developmental approach has been articulated This volume the first book dedicated to career development of children and adolescents provides a broad and comprehensive overview of the current knowledge about the key career processes that take place in this age group Each of the eighteen chapters represents an in depth examination of a specific aspect of career development with a focus on integrating modern career theory and ongoing research and further developing theory practice connections in understanding child and adolescent career behaviour Twenty six authors leading experts from eight countries provide a state of the art summary of the current thinking in the field and outline directions for future empirical work and practice

Clinical Epiphanies in Marital and Family Therapy David A. Baptiste, 2002 This fascinating collection shows how one therapist handled clients stuck in the therapeutic process Each of these turning points is also discussed by two other therapists representing divergent points of view Clinical Epiphanies in Marital and Family Therapy A Practitioner's Casebook of Therapeutic Insights Perceptions and Breakthroughs presents a cross section of approaches and orientations as they work in practice It offers fresh strategies for experienced practitioners beginning therapists and educators in the field of mental health

Not Grown Up Forever Ching Man Lam, 2007 This book is based on a Chinese conception of adolescent development which is a model that incorporates culture and migration as two essential components of its framework This framework is based on the notion that there is a dynamic interplay between culture and migration in Chinese immigrant families that contributes to adolescent development In the specific migration context indigenous Chinese notions are reinforced and intensified these notions thus develop particular meanings and contribute distinctive themes to both the processes and outcomes of adolescent development The Chinese conception of adolescent development the author proposes acknowledges the unique experiences of Chinese immigrants takes account of the personal meaning of parents and adolescents and incorporates ideas from Chinese culture

Developmental Criminology and Its Discontents Robert J. Sampson, John Laub, 2006-10-02 Life course criminology has generated new energy and provoked sharp debate over competing ideas about the fundamental relationship between age and crime A major catalyst for this debate a 2003 American

Society of Criminology ASC conference session entitled Age Crime and Human Development The Future of Life Course Criminology chaired by the editors of this issue provided a springboard for this special issue of The Annals With an eye to the future this special issue provides critical debate on patterns of age and crime across the full life course from infancy to late adulthood Criminal career topics such as onset continuation termination and career length are also discussed along with the viability of developmental and taxonomic theories of crime the suitability of existing data archives to test theories and the prospects for marrying longitudinal and experimental studies The distinguished papers that appear in this compelling collection include the full set of presentations from the inaugural Albany Symposium on Crime and Justice Developmental Criminology and Its Discontents Offender Typologies and Trajectories of Crime which took place in April 2005 and built upon the questions raised at the ASC conference session In addition to the revised original papers and commentaries from the Albany symposium this journal also includes never before published responses to the commentaries by each of the papers authors An overview by Alfred Blumstein of the central issues raised at the symposium and a book review essay by Hans J rgen Kerner rounds out the volume and collectively provides a comprehensive representation of the provocative discussion ignited by these intriguing session panels Centered on the fundamental discussions raised by the life course paradigm in criminology this historical issue of The Annals will potentially shape the theoretical and research agenda for years to come It is an essential resource for scholars researchers and practitioners in the fields of criminology sociology psychology criminal justice aging human development and social policy With a diverse set of viewpoints this well rounded and in depth look at age crime and human development is a valuable contribution to existing studies and will serve as a foundation for future research into this lively topic
