Parents . . . Partners in Education Kristen J. Amundson,1987-06-01 Powerful Parent Partnerships Robert Dillon,Melissa Nixon,2018-09-03 It is essential that we work together to craft powerful parent teacher partnerships that meet the needs of today's students and schools. In this important new book authors Robert Dillon and Melissa Nixon explain how schools and families can work together so that the needs of children are always met. Whether you're a parent hoping to work more effectively with your child's teacher or a principal or teacher looking for ways to understand families' needs, you'll be able to use the strategies in this resource to improve your communication and build deeper connections. Loaded with practical takeaways and sample stories, this book will help you clearly communicate a child's educational goals. Make connections with other schools and school districts to build community and broaden your range of resources. Hold educators accountable without alienating them. Develop communication strategies to address difficult topics like underperformance and misbehavior. Show compassion and gratitude. And more. With the practical suggestions in this book, you'll be able to rekindle more engagement and excitement into students' learning at school and at home.

Parent Partners Jacqueline Barber, Lynn Barakos, Lincoln Bergman, 2000. Parent Partners is a set of materials especially designed for educators and activist parents who are seeking to increase parental involvement in their school and community. This variety of tools will help educate parents about current approaches in elementary science and mathematics education and about the enormous impact parents can make in their child's education. Included are Parent Education Sessions, Step by step instructions for the presentation of three parent education workshops, How Parents Make a Difference, How Students Learn Best, Testing, Knowing What Your Child Knows, Take home Handouts, Sixteen clear jargon free handouts providing detailed information on what parents can do that makes a difference for children. These include What Parents Can Do to Make a Difference, 20 Ways to Support Your Children and Their School, Four Common Ways Parents Discourage Their Children, and more. Engaging Messages, A series of short digests of research findings that can be used to motivate parents to get involved. Decades of research studies point to parent involvement in a child's education as the single most important factor for academic success. Research also shows that students and schools are most successful when parents and teachers work together as active partners. The materials in Parent Partners can help transform schools into vibrant educational communities by increasing the role of parents. All of these materials focus on giving parents practical things they can do to enable their children's success. Being involved doesn't require knowledge of math or science, a college education or any extensive preparation. There are many things a parent can do that can make a huge difference for children. Jacqueline Barber is the Director of the GEMS Program and Associate Director of the Lawrence Hall of Science, the internationally renowned center for science and mathematics education.

Resources in Education, 1997. Partnering with Parents to Ask the Right Questions Luz Santana, Dan Rothstein, Agnes Bain, 2016-09-13. How can we make it easier for schools and families to work together on behalf of all students? It all begins by tapping into the different strengths educators and parents and caregivers can contribute to building a strong partnership. Partnering with Parents to Ask the Right Questions by Luz Santana, Dan Rothstein and Agnes Bain of the Right Question Institute presents a deceptively simple strategy for how educators can build effective partnerships with parents especially.

those who typically have not been actively involved in their children's schooling. It distills complex important ideas on effective civic participation into an easy to learn process that teaches parents two fundamental skills they can use to support the education of their children: monitor their progress and advocate for them asking better questions and participating effectively in key decisions. Based on more than two decades of work and research in a wide range of low and moderate income communities this book empowers overburdened and under resourced educators and parents to work together and achieve their common goal of successful students. This indispensable guide includes case studies spanning K-12 classrooms and it explores ways to assist struggling students collaborate on IEPs and communicate with families of English language learners. The accessible and easy to use format field tested advice and vivid examples from schools that put the advice into practice make this a must have for everyone from the classroom to the central office.
