Parthenon West Review :

A Hotel Lobby at the Edge of the World Adam Clay, 2012 These poems hover in and out of dreams follow the mind's wild wanderings interrogate language reveal the heart's ambitions all the while remaining brilliantly anchored to the physicality of all things earthbound This is a book that lives as much in the curious mind as it does in the undeniable weather of the real world Ada Limón
Incivilities Barbara Claire Freeman, 2010 Poetry In her first collection Barbara Claire Freeman links lyric subjectivity to an exploration of crucial moments in U S history There are meditations on the Declaration of Independence institution of slavery Gold Rush Lewis and Clark Expedition Civil War Great Depression terrorist attacks of 9 11 as well as on our contemporary economic and cultural lives These formally inventive poems braid the personal and the political They offer no compromise no synthesis but they do offer hope as they invite critical reflection of authorized history and trace the efforts of historical subjects to make and remake their lives INCIVILITIES is committed to the past and to the present envisioning a poetry that might function both as a ritualistic act of imagining and as a talisman against forgetting

Essex Review, 1901 Sand Theory William Olsen, 2011-02-09 The poems in Sand Theory William Olsen's fifth collection to date bristle with intellect sensitivity and ambition Engaging poets from William Blake to Theodore Roethke Olsen takes aim at grand questions of spirituality the instability of meaning and the individual's relationship with the natural world Yet Olsen's lithe and sinuous poems wear their metaphysical concerns lightly shifting easily between the immediate perceptions of a passing moment and observations offered as if from a great distance outside of time and space The energy of Olsen's poems is generated by his ability to meld the intellectual and the emotional the abstract and the concrete into a seamless whole while maintaining a sense of wit and playfulness Sand Theory cements Olsen's standing as one of the most vital poets writing today an audacious chronicler of the supremely open moment The Essex Review Edward Arthur Fitch, William Herbert Dalton, Charlotte Fell-Smith, 1903
The Essex Review, 1903 Tender the Maker Christina Hutchins, 2015-09-22 Again and again in Christina Hutchins's exquisite Tender the Maker poems startle us into awareness of the overlooked the nearly always invisible such as a library's unused dictionary and the marvelous those aspects of life that come under the rubric of mystery in all senses of the word Hutchins combines a pitch perfect and precise lyricism with a postmodern sensibility of language's materiality Cynthia Hogue judge for the 2015 May Swenson Poetry Award Smith Blue Camille T. Dungy, 2011-05-18 In Smith Blue Camille T. Dungy offers a survival guide for the modern heart as she takes on twenty first century questions of love loss and nature From a myriad of lenses these poems examine the human capability for perseverance in the wake of heartbreak the loss of beloved heroes and landscapes and our determination in the face of everyday struggles Dungy explores the dual nature of our presence on the planet juxtaposing the devastation caused by human habitation with our own vulnerability to the capricious whims of our environment In doing so she reveals with fury and tenderness the countless ways in which we both create and are victims of catastrophe This searing collection delves into the most intimate transformations wrought by our ever shifting personal cultural and physical terrains each fraught with both disillusionment and hope In the end Dungy demonstrates how we are all intertwined regardless of race or species living and loving as best we are able in the shadows of both man made and natural follies Flight It is the day after the leaves when buckeyes like a thousand thousand pendulums clock trees and squirrels fat in their winter fur chuckle hours chortle days It is the time for the parting of our ways You slid into the summer of my sleeping crept into my lonely hours ate the music of my dreams You filled yourself with the treated sweet I offered then shut your rolling eyes and stole my sleep Came morning and me awake Came morning Awake I walked twelve miles to the six gun shop On the way there I saw a bird of prayer all furled up by the river I called to it It would not unfold On the way home I killed it It is the time of the waking cold when buckeyes like a thousand thousand metronomes tock time and you fat on my summer sleep titter toward me walk away It is the time for the parting of our days Five Fingers Review ,2006 Trances of the Blast Mary Ruefle,2020-07-28 One of the wisest books I ve read in years and it would be a shame to think that only poets will read it David Kirby The New York Times Book Review on Madness Rack and Honey What a civil undomesticable and heartening poet is Mary Ruefle any Ruefle poem is an occasion of resonant wit and language subject to an exacting intelligence Rodney Jones Poetry Society of America William Carlos Williams Award citation Trances of the Blast is a major new collection from recent National Book Critics Circle Award finalist Mary Ruefle Full of Ruefle s particular wisdom and wit the poems deliver her imaginative take on the world s rifts its paradoxes failures and loss and help us better appreciate its redeeming strangeness If only I d understood that loneliness was just loneliness only loneliness and nothing more But I was blind Little did I know If only I d invented salt I might have died happy I wish I loved you but you can t have everything Mary Ruefle is the author of many books of prose poetry and erasures She is the recipient of the William Carlos Williams Award an Award in Literature from the American Academy of Arts and Letters a Guggenheim fellowship a National Endowment for the Arts fellowship and a Whiting Award Her book of lectures Madness Rack and Honey was named a finalist for the 2012 National Book Critics Circle Award She lives and teaches in Vermont Southern Educational Review ,1908 The Virginia Quarterly Review ,1925 The Nine Senses Melissa Kwasny,2011-03-15 The prize winning author of Thistle shares a quietly magnificent collection of prose poems that explore how we connect to the world around us Orion Drawing inspiration from the work of Rene Char Melissa Kwasny presents a new kind of prose poem in The Nine Senses These experiments challenge the way we read sequentially making each line equal to the next as disparate figures and topics appear side by side Dylan Thomas Roman water lines Paul Celan Shirin Neshat anti depressants Buddhism William Carlos Williams Trakl cancer Beckett Pound Breton the Iraq War telekinesis clairvoyance Jaune Quick to See Smith and Yeats among many others Through it all Kwasny asks how we tie ourselves to the world when our minds are always someplace other than where we are As bromides and aphorisms degrade we are left with startling new realizations Obliquely touching on the cancer of a friend her own troubled relationship with her
