Partners Becoming Parents Talks From The Tavistock Marital Studies Institute:

Partners Becoming Parents of Marital Studies, Tavistock Institute, 1997-02-01 Christopher Clulow examines the connections between partnership and parenthood focusing on the parents as partners as well as parents and on the child. He examines how children change the relationship between their parents and what relevance the couple's relationship has for healthy child development. Becoming parents is arguable the most challenging of life changes faced by couples. There are no clear guidelines about what is involved; the routes are many and the choices range broadly. Today diverse lifestyles, new technologies and changing socioeconomic circumstances have combined with other factors to further complicate the demands of parenting. Against this backdrop, couples play out dramas constructed from their own histories and continuing lives together. The child is born into this context of subtle interplay between each parent's and the couple's inner and outer experiences. This book provides a fascinating and authoritative look at the emotional process of becoming a family.

Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered Wyn Bramley, 2018-04-24 This book, written in plain language by an experienced psychoanalytically orientated therapist, is aimed at lay readers who wish to understand how couples consciously and unconsciously operate in successful and unsuccessful partnerships. It covers the central concepts involved, illustrated by disguised case material. The book will also be invaluable for trainers, trainees and individual counsellors, psychotherapists wishing to extend their work into a fresh clinical area, namely couple therapy. The style is lively and accessible, covering a complete range of couple issues from early union till death. By means of real people's stories, it clearly demonstrates how internal and external experiences throughout development from birth to adolescence shape the style, quality and progress of a committed pair bond. Not all couples require therapy, of course. A careful reading of this book could be sufficient to start off a change in a couple's way of thinking, such that impending problems are prevented or better managed. A summary of who might and might not need help is presented in the concluding section of the book.

Marriage After Modernity Adrian Thatcher, 1999-01-01 This book offers nothing less than a new vision for Christian marriage at a time of unprecedented social and theological change. It breaks new ground in drawing on earlier traditions of betrothal and informal marriage, in welcoming some forms of pre-marital cohabitation and providing a new defence of the link between marriage and procreation by sketching a theology of liberation for children. Christian principles for the use of contraception by married and not yet married couples are restated and a comprehensive theology of marriage is worked out based on re-worked biblical models. Marriage as a Christian sacrament mutually administered in a lifelong partnership of equals is affirmed. A chapter on divorce brings new light to bear on legitimate theological grounds for the parting of the ways. The question of whether marriage is a heterosexual institution is addressed and particular attention is paid throughout the book to overcoming the distorting effect of the overwhelming androcentric bias of much Christian thought on marriage to the experience of wives and to all those women and men for whom marriage is not their vocation.

The Emotional Experience of Adoption Debbie Hindle, Graham

Shulman,2008-04-10 This book demonstrates how psychoanalytic understanding and treatment can contribute to thinking about and working with adopted children and their families It illustrates how psychoanalytic psychotherapy can help both as a treatment and as a distinctive source of understanding for children who are either in the process of being adopted or already adopted

Gender, Identity & Reproduction S. Earle,G. Letherby,2003-10-31 Gender Identity and Reproduction draws on a variety of perspectives relevant to an understanding of reproduction across the life course Through a consideration of the representation of reproductive identities and experiences the book highlights difference and diversity in relation to contemporary reproductive choices The book focuses on women s and men s experiences of agency control and negotiation within the context of cultural medical political theoretical and lay ideologies of the reproductive process in contemporary Western societies
