

Managing service Quality

- The service quality of a firm is tested at each service encounter. If service personnel are bored, cannot answer simple questions, or visiting with each other while customers are waiting, customers will think twice about doing business again with that seller.
- Customer expectations: customers form service expectations from many sources, such as past experiences, word of mouth, and advertising. Customers compare the perceived service with the expected service. If the perceived service falls below the expected service, customers are disappointed.
- If the perceived service meets or exceeds their expectations, they are suitable to use the provider again. Successful companies add benefits to their offering that not only satisfy customers but surprise and delight them.

management initially associated with manufacturing industries one might assume the relevance of quality management might decrease with the emergence of the service economy To the contrary the emergence of the service economy strengthened the importance of quality issues which no longer are associated only with manufacturing industries but are increasingly applied in all service sectors as well Today we talk not only about product or service quality but have even expanded the framework of quality to quality of life and quality of environment Thus quality and services have emerged in parallel as closely interrelated fields The Encyclopedia of Quality and the Service Economy explores such relevant questions as What are the characteristics nature and definitions of quality and services How do we define quality of products quality of services or quality of life How are services distinguished from goods How do we measure various aspects of quality and services How can products and service quality be managed most effectively and efficiently What is the role of customers in creation of values These questions and more are explored within the pages of this two volume A to Z reference work The International Journal of Artificial Organs ,1998
