

A detailed illustration of a medieval manor house and its surrounding village. The manor house is a large, multi-story building with a prominent central tower and several smaller towers, all with red-tiled roofs. It is situated on a hill, surrounded by a stone wall. Below the manor, there is a small village with several houses, some with thatched roofs. In the foreground, there is a green field with a small stream or ditch running through it. The sky is blue with white clouds.
