Migration And The Externalities Of European Integration:

Migration and the Externalities of European Integration Sandra Lavenex, Emek M. Uçarer, 2002-01-01 Migration and the Externalities of European Integration analyzes the extra European dimension of the European Union's EU migration policies and the mechanisms developed to enforce the EU's policy decisions. While previous scholarship has tended to overlook the consequences of Europeanization on actors outside the EU, this work scrutinizes the foreign policy dimension in EU migration policies and highlights the Union's complex role as an international actor. Written by scholars of migration policy, the essays discuss the impact of EU asylum and refugee policy on Norway, Switzerland, Eastern Europe, Euro-Mediterranean and EU-Turkish relations and the effect of migration on European immigration controls and welfare policy. This comprehensive treatment of transnational migration will be a valuable resource for students of international affairs, European integration and international organization.

The Europeanization of National Policies and Politics of Immigration T. Faist, A. Ette, 2007-02-28 The Europeanization of National Policies and Politics of Immigration is the first cutting edge volume presenting a comparative empirical investigation on the impact of the EU on migration policy at national level. Revealing striking differences, this collection examines traditional member states, new member states as well as non-member states.

Immigration Policy in Europe Virginie Guiraudon, Gallya Lahav, 2006-11-09 Previously published as a special issue of West European Politics, this edited volume evaluates the extent to which a policy gap between inputs and outcomes exists with regard to immigration control. In exploring an expanded migration policy field which includes the extreme right, the media and actors, this book goes beyond traditional analyses.

The Challenge of Differentiation in Euro-Mediterranean Relations Esther Barbé, Anna Herranz-Surrallés, 2013-09-13 The tension between the aim of creating sustainable multilateral region building dynamics and the need to find more differentiated and flexible forms of cooperation has been ever present in Euro-Mediterranean relations. The proliferation of different and partially overlapping initiatives in recent years, the Euro-Mediterranean Partnership, the European

Neighbourhood Policy and the Union for the Mediterranean is a plain expression of this tension The 2011 episodes of regime change in the Arab world have once again placed the debate about differentiation in EU's relations with Southern and Eastern Mediterranean Countries at the top of the Union's foreign policy agenda This book contributes to theoretical and practical debates on whether differentiation processes can aid or hinder policy convergence processes and region building efforts more widely The contributions to this collection assess the actual significance and consequences of differentiation in Euro Mediterranean relations through sector specific in depth analyses covering issue areas as varied as environmental policy migration foreign and defence policy trade energy civil protection and democracy promotion The particular angle and comprehensive analysis of this book will make it of great interest for both scholars and policy makers alike in a moment when Euro Mediterranean are in need of a thorough rethink This book was based on a special issue of Mediterranean Politics

Turkey, Migration and the EU Seçil Paçacı Elitok, Thomas Straubhaar, 2012 In the context of Turkey's accession to the EU the issue of potential migration from Turkey and its impact upon European labor markets became one of the concerns of the EU considering Turkey's growing population and young labor force In 2011 half a century after the bi lateral agreement between Turkey and Germany on labor recruitment in 1961 migration plays a key role in relations of Turkey with the EU and will even increase its significance not necessarily for the next fifty years but certainly for the next decade This book touches upon various aspects of the ongoing debate about the effects of Turkey's accession to the EU upon the migration flows and sheds light on various dimensions of current panorama addresses policy implications as well as future challenges and opportunities

Africa in Europe: Antiquity Into the Age of Global

Exploration Stefan Goodwin, 2009 Africa in Europe in two volumes meticulously documents Europe's African presence from antiquity to the present. It incorporates findings from areas of study as diverse as physical anthropology, linguistics, social history, social theory, international relations, migrational studies, and globalization. In contrast to most other works focusing on Eurafrican relationships that largely revolve around Atlantic and trans-Atlantic developments since the Age of Global Exploration, this work has a much broader perspective which takes account of human evolution, the history of religion, Judaic studies, Byzantine studies, the history of Islam, and Western intellectual history including social theory. While the issue of racism in its variant manifestations receives thorough treatment, African in Europe is also about human connections across fluid boundaries that are ancient as well as those that date to the Age of Exploration, the Age of Revolution, and continue until the present. Hence it brings new clarity to our understanding of such processes as acculturation and assimilation while deepening our understanding of interrelationships among racism, violence, and social identities. This work is full of new insights, fresh interpretations, and highly nuanced analyses relevant to our thinking about territoriality, citizenship, migration, and frontiers in a world that is increasingly globalized. The author moves across boundaries of time and space in ways that result in an encyclopedic work that is an integrated and programmatic whole as well as one in which each chapter is a complete module of scholarship that is self-contained.
