Migrations And Cultures:

Migrations And Cultures Thomas Sowell, 2025-04-01 Most commentators look at the issue of immigration from the viewpoint of immediate politics. In doing so they focus on only a piece of the issue and lose touch with the larger picture. Now Thomas Sowell offers a sweeping historical and global look at a large number of migrations over a long period of time. Migrations and Cultures shows the persistence of cultural traits in particular racial and ethnic groups and the role these groups' relocations play in redistributing skills, knowledge and other forms of human capital. It answers the question: What are the effects of disseminating the patterns of the particular set of skills, attitudes and lifestyles each ethnic group has carried forth both for the immigrants and for the host countries in social as well as economic terms. Cultures in Contact Dirk Hoerder, 2002-11-21 Analysis of migrations: regional, interregional, continent wide and global and the resulting cultural interactions and societal changes. Migration and Culture Gil Epstein, Ira Gang, 2010-12-16 Culture plays a central role in our understanding of migration as an economic phenomenon. This title emphasises the distinctions in culture between migrants, the families they left behind and the local population in the migration destination. Cultures of Migration Hans Peter Hahn, Georg Klute, 2007 International Migrations have become a central topic in the Humanities in the last years. Understanding migration requires a closer look at the migratory phenomena and the continuities within the societies involved in the migration process. This volume intends to overcome simplistic views on migration and the shortcomings of a push and pull factor analysis. Instead, the perspective of the migrants themselves orients the approach of cultures of migration. In this view, migration becomes a complex issue and motives and acceptance of migration appear to be a matter of negotiations in the migrants' societies of origin and in the host societies as well. The present volume brings together a number of essays exploring the cultures of migration in various contexts. It is organised in three sections dealing with Migrations as Encounters, Migration as Challenge and Transcontinental Migrants. Ten contributions, each based on original fieldwork in various parts of Africa, examine the validity of the concept of cultures of migration as explained in the introduction.

Cultures of Migration Jeffrey H. Cohen, Ibrahim Sirkeci, 2011-09-01 Around the globe people leave their homes to better themselves, to satisfy needs and to care for their families. They also migrate to escape undesirable conditions ranging from a lack of economic opportunities to violent conflicts at home or in the community. Most studies of migration have analyzed the topic at either the macro level of national and global economic and political forces or the micro level of the psychology of individual migrants. Few studies have examined the culture of migration, that is, the cultural beliefs and social patterns that influence people to move. Cultures of Migration combines anthropological and geographical sensibilities as well as sociological and economic models to explore the household level decision making process that prompts migration. The authors draw their examples not only from their previous studies of Mexican Oaxacans and Turkish Kurds but also from migrants from Europe, sub-Saharan Africa, the Pacific and many parts of Asia. They examine social, economic and political factors that can induce a household to decide to send members abroad along with the cultural beliefs and traditions that can limit migration. The authors look at both transnational and internal migrations and at shorter and longer term stays in the receiving location. They also consider the effect that migration has on those who remain behind. The authors' culture of migration model adds an important new dimension to our understanding of the cultural beliefs and social patterns associated with migration and will help specialists better respond to increasing human mobility.

The Relocation of Culture Simona Bertacco, Nicoletta Vallorani, 2021-04-08. The Relocation of Culture is about accents and borders about people and cultures that have accents and that cross borders. It is a book that deals with translation and nomadic identities and with the many ways in which the increasing relevance of forced migrations has affected the practice of languages and the understanding of cultures in our times. Simona Bertacco and Nicoletta Vallorani examine the theoretical and practical nexus of translation and migration, two of the most visible and anxiety-producing keywords of our age and use translation as the method for a global cultural theory firmly based in the humanities, both as creative output and interdisciplinary scholarship. Positioning their work within the field of translation studies with important borrowings from literary and cultural studies, visual and migration studies, the authors suggest a theory of translation that makes space for complexity, considers different languages, words, images, sounds, bodies, and takes into account both our emotional, pre-linguistic and instinctual reaction to the other as an invader and an enemy and the responsibility for the other that lies at the heart of translation. This process necessarily involves a reflection on the location and relocation of cultures in contemporary times.

Material Cultures, Migrations, and Identities Anna Pechurina, 2016-04-29. Focusing on the experiences of Russian migrants to the United Kingdom, this book explores the connection between migrations, homes, and identities. It evaluates several approaches to studying them and is structured around a series of case studies on attitudes to homemaking, food, and cooking and clothing.

The Cultures of Italian Migration Graziella Parati, Anthony Julian Tamburri, 2011-12-28. The Cultures of Italian Migration allows the adjective Italian to qualify people's movements along diverse trajectories and temporal dimensions. Discussions on migrations to and from Italy meet in that discursive space where critical concepts like home, identity, subjectivity, and otherness eschew stereotyping. This volume demonstrates that interpretations of old migrations are necessary in order to talk about contemporary Italy. New migrations trace new, non-linear paths in the definition of a multicultural Italy whose roots are unmistakably present throughout the centuries. Some of these essays concentrate on topics that are historically long-term, such as emigration from Italy to the Americas and southern Pacific Ocean. Others focus on the more contemporary phenomena of immigration to Italy from other parts of the world, including Africa. This collection ultimately offers an invitation to seek out new and different modes of analyzing the migratory act.

forms of transnational mobility and diasporic belonging have become emblematic of a supposed global condition of uprootedness Yet much recent theorizing of our so called postmodern life emphasizes movement and fluidity without interrogating who and what is on the move This original and timely book examines the interdependence of mobility and belonging by considering how homes are formed in relationship to movement It suggests that movement does not only happen when one leaves home and that homes are not always fixed in a single location Home and belonging may involve attachment and movement fixation and loss and the transgression and enforcement of boundaries What is the relationship between leaving home and the imagining of home itself And having left home what might it mean to return How can we re think what it means to be grounded or to stay put Who moves and who stays What interaction is there between those who stay and those who arrive and leave Focusing on differences of race gender class and sexuality the contributors reveal how the movements of bodies and communities are intrinsic to the making of homes nations identities and boundaries They reflect on the different experiences of being at home leaving home and going home They also explore ways in which attachment to place and locality can be secured as well as challenged through the movements that make up our dwelling places Uprootings Regroundings Questions of Home and Migration is a groundbreaking exploration of the parallel and entwined meanings of home and migration Contributors draw on feminist and postcolonial theory to explore topics including Irish Palestinian and indigenous attachments to soils of significance the making of and trafficking across European borders the female body as a symbol of home or nation and the shifting grounds of queer migrations and creole identities This innovative analysis will open up avenues of research an
