Judith Bannister, 1999 Ethnopolitics in Cyberspace Robert A. Saunders, 2011-01-01 Defying predictions that the Internet would eventually create a world where nations disappeared in favor of a unified global village the new millennium has instead seen a proliferation of nationalism on the Web Cyberspace a vast digital terrain built upon interwoven congeries of data and sustained through countless public private communication networks has even begun to alter the very fabric of national identity This is particularly true among stateless nations diasporic groups and national minorities which have fashioned the Internet into a shield against the assimilating efforts of their countries of residence As a deterritorialized medium that allows both selective consumption and inexpensive production of news and information the Internet has endowed a new generation of technology savvy elites with a level of influence that would have been impossible to obtain a decade ago Challenged nations from Assyrians to Zapotecs have used the Web to rewrite history engage in political activism and reinvigorate moribund languages This book explores the role of the Internet in shaping ethnopolitics and sustaining national identity among four different national groups Albanians outside of Albania Russians in the near abroad Roma Gypsies and European Muslims Accompanying these case studies are briefer discussions of dozens of other online national movements as well as the ramifications of Internet nationalism for offline domestic and global politics The author discusses how the Internet provides new tools for maintaining national identity and improves older techniques of nationalist resistance for minorities Bringing together research and methodologies from a range of fields Saunders fills a gap in the social science literature on the Internet's central role in influencing nationalism in the twenty first century By creating new spaces for political discourse alternative avenues for cultural production and novel means of social organization the Web is remaking what it means to be part of nation This insightful study provides a glimpse of this exciting and sometimes disturbing new landscape

Jihad in the West Frazer Egerton, 2011-03-17 Militant Salafism is one of the most significant movements in politics today Unfortunately its significance has not been matched by understanding To begin to address this knowledge deficit this book argues that rather than the largely unhelpful pursuit of individual root causes offered in much of the literature we would be better served by looking at the factors that have enabled and facilitated a particular political imaginary That political imaginary is one that allows individuals to conceive of themselves as integral members of a global battle waged between the forces of Islam and the West something that lies at the heart of militant Salafism Frazer Egerton shows how the ubiquity of modern media and the prevalence of movement have allowed for a transformation of existing beliefs into an ideology supportive of militant Salafism against the West amongst Western Muslims

Globalized Arts J. P. Singh, 2014-02-01 The spread of Islam around the globe has blurred the connection between a religion a specific society and a territory One third of the world's Muslims now live as members of a minority At the heart of this development is on the one hand the voluntary settlement of Muslims in Western societies and on the other the pervasiveness and influence of Western cultural models and social norms The revival of Islam among Muslim populations in the last twenty years is often wrongly perceived as a backlash against westernization rather than as one of its consequences Neofundamentalism has been gaining ground among a rootless Muslim youth particularly among the second and third generation migrants in the West and this phenomenon is feeding new forms of radicalism ranging from support for Al Qaeda to the outright rejection of integration into Western society In this brilliant exegesis of the movement of Islam beyond traditional borders and its unwitting westernization Olivier Roy argues that Islamic revival or re-Islamization results from the efforts of westernized Muslims to assert their identity in a non-Muslim context A schism has emerged between mainstream Islamist movements in the Muslim world including Hamas of Palestine and Hezbollah of Lebanon and the uprooted militants who strive to establish an imaginary ummah or Muslim community not embedded in any particular society or territory Roy provides a detailed comparison of these transnational movements whether peaceful like Tablighi Jama'at and the Islamic brotherhoods or violent like Al Qaeda He shows how neofundamentalism acknowledges without nostalgia the loss of pristine cultures constructing instead a universal religious identity that transcends the very notion of culture Thus contemporary Islamic fundamentalism is not a single note reaction against westernization but a product and an agent of the complex forces of globalization OnTheInternet, 1997 Script & Print, 2005 Moving a Mountain Eileen E. Without Fear Maxwell A. Cameron,Robert J. Lawson,Brian W. Tomlin,1998 To Walk Without Fear is a comprehensive and authoritative account of the global movement to ban landmines It brings together leading academics senior policy makers and prominent leaders of non governmental organizations NGOs to examine and draw lessons from the Ottawa Process that culminated in December 1997 when over 120 states signed a convention to ban the use sale and production of landmines An essay by Nobel laureate Jody Williams and Steve Goose of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines ICBL describes how a global coalition of NGOs led the world toward a ban on landmines while a chapter by the Canadian diplomats who orchestrated the Ottawa Process takes the reader behind the scenes into the diplomatic arm wrestling that resulted in Canada's leadership role. International specialists offer assessments of the military utility of mines retired General Robert Gard their humanitarian consequences Alex Vines the role of the Red Cross Stuart Maslen landmine victims Jerry White and Ken Rutherford national ban campaigns including Valerie Warmington and Mary Warham the problems of mine clearance Don Hubert and interpretations of the legal text of the treaty Thomas Hajnoczi and Deborah Chatsis Academic specialists analyze the policy process and negotiations explore the political economy of mines identify the implications of the treaty for the development of international humanitarian norms democratization and civil society and Canada's Minister of Foreign Affairs Lloyd Axworthy draws lessons from the Ottawa Process for other policy issues. The book resulted from an unusual collaboration between universities governments and nongovernmental organizations which developed in tandem with the negotiation process itself. Chapters were developed through a series of policy workshops a seminar series intensive focus group discussions with government officials and NGO members and a lessons learned exercise that brought together over 200 NGO and government participants immediately after the signing of the convention. As a result the book provides a rich source of new information and analyses. It will be both timely and of enduring value to policy makers interested in drawing lessons from the Ottawa Process to non governmental organizations interested in replicating its results in other areas to academic specialists and students interested in foreign policy and international affairs and to the general public seeking an accessible and readable account of one of the most significant global movements in recent years.
