Paris: The 'New Rome' of Napoleon I Diana Rowell, 2012-08-23 Napoleon I employed a myriad of media through which to promote his propaganda and his universal hegemony Classical Rome home to the great Caesars was central to his ambitious visions for the transformation of Paris into an imperial metropolis of unprecedented magnitude Exploring the interrelationship between antiquity the display of power and the reinvention of Paris this volume evaluates how the Roman world and post antique exploitations of Rome influenced Napoleonic Paris and how Napoleon promoted his authority by appropriating Rome's triumphal architecture and its associated symbolism to relocate Rome in his own times The volume shows how consideration of Louis XIV's legacy is crucial to understanding the evolution of Napoleon's fascination with imperial Rome It also charts Napoleon's manipulation of the populist rhetoric of Republican France and Rome as he moved from being a general fighting for the Revolutionary cause to become the absolute ruler of a new empire

A Taste for the Foreign Ellen R. Welch, 2011-03-14 A Taste for the Foreign examines foreignness as a crucial aesthetic category for the development of prose fiction from Jacques Amyot's 1547 translation of The Ethiopian Story to Antoine Galland's early eighteenth century version of The Thousand and One Nights While fantastic storylines and elements of magic were increasingly shunned by a neo-classicist literary culture that valued verisimilitude above all else writers and critics surmised that the depiction of exotic lands could offer a superior source for the novelty variety and marvelousness that constituted fiction's appeal In this sense early modern fiction presents itself as privileged site for thinking through the literary and cultural stakes of exoticism or the taste for the foreign Long before the term exoticism came into common parlance in France fiction writers thus demonstrated their understanding of the special kinds of aesthetic pleasure produced by evocations of foreignness developing techniques to simulate those delights through imitations of the exotic As early modern readers eagerly consumed travel narratives maps and international newsletters novelists discovered ways to blur the distinction between true and imaginary representations of the foreign tantalizing readers with an illusion of learning about the faraway lands that captured their imaginations This book analyzes the creative appropriations of those scientific or documentary forms of writing that claimed to inform the French public about exotic places Concentrating on the most successful examples of some of the most important sub-genres of prose fiction in the long seventeenth century heroic romances shorter urban novels fictional memoirs and extraordinary voyages the book examines how these types of fiction creatively appropriate the scientific or documentary forms of writing that claimed to inform the French public about exotic places Published by University of Delaware Press Distributed worldwide by Rutgers University Press

Renoir Landscapes, 1865-1883 Colin B. Bailey, Robert McDonald Parker, Auguste Renoir, 2007 This stunning book published to accompany a major touring exhibition examines Renoir's landscape art in depth demonstrating that he was one of the most audacious and original landscape artists of his age

The Iconic Building Charles Jencks, 2005 A new type of architecture has emerged in the last decade the iconic landmark building which challenges the traditional architectural monument In the past public buildings expressed shared meaning through well known conventions Today those conventions are superseded by commercial forces and the quest for instant fame Public architecture is now required to be an amazing piece of surreal sculpture as well as something that appeals to a diverse audience at once provocative and practical yet without the context that religion and ideology once provided Such contrary demands drive the architect toward a new convention the enigmatic signifier This curious sign suggests many meanings without naming of them The most publicized version of the genre Frank Gehry's New Guggenheim Museum in Bilbao 1997 became an instant media event that forces other architects to design event buildings routinely This Bilbao effect has led to a series of landmark buildings by architects such as Norman Foster Peter Eisenman Enric Miralles Zaha Hadid Daniel Libeskind Renzo Piano Will Alsop and Rem Koolhaas Some of these buildings are successful creations while others make us wince book jacket
