that inspired it     Dance, Desire, and Anxiety in Early Twentieth-Century French Theater Charles R. Batson,2017-03-02 The 1909 arrival of Serge de Diaghilev's Ballets Russes in Paris marked the beginning of some two decades of collaboration among littérateurs, painters, musicians, and choreographers, many not native to France. Charles Batson's original and nuanced exploration of several of these collaborations integral to the formation of modernism and avant-gardist aesthetics re-inscribes performances of the celebrated Russians and the lesser known but equally innovative Ballets Suédois into their varied artistic traditions as well as the French historical context, teasing out connections and implications that are usually overlooked in less decidedly interdisciplinary studies. Batson not only uncovers the multiple meanings set in motion through the interplay of dancers, musicians, librettists, and spectators but also reinterprets literary texts that inform these meanings such as Valéry's L'Ame et la danse. Identifying the performing body as a site where anxieties, drives, and desires of the French public were worked out, he shows how the messages carried by and ascribed to bodies in performance significantly influenced thought and informed the direction of much artistic expression in the twentieth century. His book will be a valuable resource for scholars working in the fields of literature, dance, music, and film as well as French cultural studies.     Jean Cocteau James S. Williams,2008-02 Evaluating Cocteau's career and his fascinating personal life on equal terms, James Williams offers here a groundbreaking analysis that sets them both within highly revealing historical and artistic contexts.     Twentieth-century French Dramatists Mary Anne O'Neil,2006 Essays on twentieth-century French playwrights who were largely influenced by non-French traditions during the greatest age of French theater since the mid-1700s. French drama of the twentieth century was cosmopolitan, experimental, and eclectic, and attempted to appeal to a wider audience than in the past. Dramatists came not only from Paris but from the provinces and the French states of the Caribbean as well as from Francophone countries such as Belgium.     The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record, 1928     A Comprehensive Companion to Hemingway's A Moveable Feast Gerry Brenner,2000 This work is a comprehensive guide to Hemingway's posthumous memoir.
