The Age of Analogy Devin Griffiths, 2016-10-28 How did literature shape nineteenth century science Erasmus Darwin and his grandson Charles were the two most important evolutionary theorists of eighteenth and nineteenth century Britain Although their ideas and methods differed both Darwins were prolific and inventive writers Erasmus composed several epic poems and scientific treatises while Charles is renowned both for his collected journals now titled The Voyage of the Beagle and for his masterpiece The Origin of Species In The Age of Analogy Devin Griffiths argues that the Darwins writing style was profoundly influenced by the poets novelists and historians of their era The Darwins like other scientists of the time labored to refashion contemporary literary models into a new mode of narrative analysis that could address the contingent world disclosed by contemporary natural science By employing vivid language and experimenting with a variety of different genres these writers gave rise to a new relational study of antiquity or comparative historicism that emerged outside of traditional histories It flourished instead in literary forms like the realist novel and the elegy as well as in natural histories that explored the continuity between past and present forms of life Nurtured by imaginative cross disciplinary descriptions of the past from the historical fiction of Sir Walter Scott and George Eliot to the poetry of Alfred Tennyson this novel understanding of history fashioned new theories of natural transformation encouraged a fresh investment in social history and explained our intuition that environment shapes daily life Drawing on a wide range of archival evidence and contemporary models of scientific and literary networks The Age of Analogy explores the critical role analogies play within historical and scientific thinking Griffiths also presents readers with a new theory of analogy that emphasizes language s power to foster insight into nature and human society The first comparative treatment of the Darwins theories of history and their profound contribution to the study of both natural and human systems this book will fascinate students and scholars of nineteenth century British literature and the history of science external focus on society but strives within this dimension for a fuller access to the inward conflicts of characters such as Edith in Dombey and Son and Pip in Great Expectations Barbara Hardy 1924-2016 was Professor of English at Birkbeck College University of London Her publications include The Novels of George Eliot A Study in Form The Appropriate Form An Essay on the Novel Middlemarch Critical Approaches to the Novel Critical Essays on George Eliot The Moral Art of Dickens The Exposure of Luxury Radical Themes in Thackeray A Reading of Jane Austen Tellers and Listeners The Narrative Imagination and The Advantages of Lyric Particularities Readings in George Eliot The Novels of George Eliot Barbara Hardy, 1981 Henry James Barbara Hardy, 1996 Most innovative of Victorian and Edwardian novelists James transformed fiction by anti realist modes of symbolic action puzzles gaps and narrative uncertainties devices emphasized in his own and later theory In this original and accessible study Barbara Hardy concentrates on the late period from 1900 to 1916 observing language and theme in close readings of The Ambassadors The Wings of the Dove The Golden Bowl The Sacred Fount the great ghost story The Jolly Corner and other tales autobiography travel and the influential criticism She offers new interpretations of the major novels and revaluation of the literary criticism in the context of later ideas which James's theory and practice anticipate James's art is read as writerly narrative whose riddles are fun whose language is wit whose sexuality is passionate and whose sexual politics and sense of history are radical
