Managing the Devolved Budget Jennifer Bean, Lascelles Hussey, 2011-09-01 Managing and being responsible for public funds is one of the most important tasks of a public sector manager particularly in the current environment where budgets are constrained and in many cases reducing. This is an area of skill and knowledge that cannot be taken for granted as many public sector managers will have had no formal training in this area. It is an ideal practical text to assist managers become more effective and efficient in the way in which they undertake budget management. The outcome being improved value for money services which benefit the whole community. This book is one of a series of books entitled Essential Skills for the Public Sector. Its target readership is any person in the public sector who manages a budget. It covers the process of devolvement preparing budgets controlling and monitoring budgets understanding financial information and the link between management and financial responsibility. Managing Devolved Budgets Richard Boyle, 1991 Handbook for Assessing and Managing Care in the Community Philip Seed, Gillian Kaye, 1994 This practical book covers the complex issues involved in assessment procedures and care management. It is addressed to care managers and to social care providers including staff at all levels. It includes sample forms and many examples and explains in clear terms the implications of various approaches. The reader is shown not only how best to carry out assessments but what is the broader meaning and context of specific assessment tasks. The first chapter explores the difficulties of maintaining the ideals of care in the community namely a needs led person centred approach in the face of resource and procedural constraints. It looks at such key current issues as quality of life criteria and the changing role of local authority services from main provider of facilities to enabler or facilitator. Traditional assessment approaches are considered in later chapters as well as techniques for costing services and issues arising from a traditional unit costs approach. An alternative real costs procedure is recommended and explained with examples. In the final chapter care management issues are summarised for people with very special needs including adults with profound intellectual and physical disabilities people with multiple disabilities potentially life threatening illnesses or challenging behaviour and people with serious addictions. The book is informed by recent research including major research funded by the Scottish Office which focused on adults with learning difficulties. Implications are also drawn from the authors broader experiences of working with other client groups. Effective Leadership, Management and Supervision in Health and Social Care Ivan Gray, Richard Field, Keith Brown, 2010-03-31 This book offers a comprehensive introduction to the areas of leadership management and supervision for line managers supervisors and senior practitioners.
