

MAN'S NEED RIGHTEOUSNESS

Man having rebelled against God in unrighteousness, stands in need of righteousness.

Mans Perfection In Righteousness

John Harries

Mans Perfection In Righteousness:

A Treatise Concerning Man's Perfection In Righteousness Saint Augustine of Hippo, Aeterna Press, Inchoate love therefore is inchoate holiness advanced love is advanced holiness great love is great holiness perfect love is perfect holiness but this love is out of a pure heart and of a good conscience and of faith unfeigned which in this life is then the greatest when life itself is condemned in comparison with it I wonder however whether it has not a soil in which to grow after it has quitted this mortal life But in what place and at what time soever it shall reach that state of absolute perfection which shall admit of no increase it is certainly not shed abroad in our hearts by any energies either of the nature or the volition that are within us but by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us and which both helps our infirmity and co operates with our strength For it is itself indeed the grace of God through our Lord Jesus Christ to whom with the Father and the Holy Spirit appertaineth eternity and all goodness for ever and ever Amen Aeterna Press On Man's Perfection in Righteousness Saint Augustine, 2014-11-12 A Treatise Concerning Man's Perfection in Righteousness St. Augustine, 2018-08 Augustin has made no mention of this treatise in his book of Retractations for the reason no doubt that it belonged to the collection of the Epistles for which he designed a separate statement of Retractations In all the mss this work begins with his usual epistolary salutation Augustin to his holy brethren and fellow bishops Eutropius and Paulus And yet by general consent this epistle has been received as a treatise not only in those volumes of his works which contain this work but also in the writings of those ancient authors who quote it Amongst these the most renowned and acquainted with Augustin s writings Possidius In indiculo 4 and Fulgentius Ad Monimum i 3 expressly call this work A Treatise on the Perfection of Man s Righteousness So far nearly all the mss agree but a few including the Codd Aud enensis and Pratellensis add these words to the general title In opposition to those who assert that it is possible for a man to become righteous by his own sole strength In a ms belonging to the Church of Rheims there occurs this inscription A Treatise on what are called the definitions of Coelestius Prosper in his work against the Collator ch 43 advises his reader to read besides some other of Augustin s books that which he wrote to the priests Paulus and Eutropius in opposition to the questions of Pelagius and Coelestius From this passage of Prosper however in which he mentions but with no regard to accurate order some of the short treatises of Augustin against the Pelagians nobody could rightly show that this work On the Perfection of Man s Righteousness was later in time than his work On Marriage and Concupiscence or than the six books against Julianus which are mentioned previously in the same passage by Prosper For indeed at the conclusion of the present treatise Augustin hesitates as yet to censure those persons who affirmed that men are living or have lived in this life righteously without any sin at all their opinion Augustin in the passage referred to just as in his treatises On Nature and Grace n 3 and On the Spirit and the Letter nn 49 70 does not yet think it necessary stoutly to resist Nothing had as yet therefore been determined on this point nor were there yet enacted in opposition to this opinion the three well known canons 6 8 of the Council of Carthage which was held in the year 418 Afterwards however on the authority of these canons he cautions people against the opinion as a pernicious error as one may see from many passages in his books Against the two Epistles of the Pelagians especially Book iv ch x 27 where he says Let us now consider that third point of theirs which each individual member of Christ as well as His entire body regards with horror where they contend that there are in this life or have been righteous persons without any sin whatever Certainly in the year 414 in an epistle 157 to Hilary when answering the questions which were then being agitated in Sicily he expresses himself in the same tone and almost in the same language on sinlessness as that which he employs at the end of this present treatise But those persons says he in ch ii n 4 of that epistle however much one may tolerate them when they affirm that there either are or have been men besides the one Saint of saints who have been wholly free from sin yet when they allege that man s own free will is sufficient for fulfilling the Lord s commandments even when unassisted by God s grace and the gift of the Holy Spirit for the performance of good works the idea is altogether worthy of anathema and of perfect detestation Ruined Sinners
